JAPANESE BEAT U. S. CONSUL ON WAY TO HARBIN

Soldiers in Mukden Stop Chamberlain's Auto and Assault Him.

VIGOROUS PROTEST MADE AFTER ATTACK

Consul General Describes Incident as Entirely Unprovoked.

(Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press.)

Mukden, Manchuria, Jan. 3.—American Consul Culver B. Chamberlain, stepping from an automobile displaying the American flag and coat of arms, was assaulted and beaten by three Japanese soldiers today on one of the main streets of Mukden.

American Consul General Myrl S. Myers accompanied Mr. Chamberlain to the Japanese Consulate, where he lodged a vigorous verbal protest with Consul S. Morishima against what he described as an "entirely unprovoked assault."

Consul Morishima promised a thorough investigation of the incident and it was launched immediately.

Mr. Chamberlain, formerly of Kansas City, Mo., arrived in Mukden yesterday en route to his new post at Harbin from a vacation trip to the United States.

Auto Halted at Border.

He left the American consulate general about 6 o'clock this morning to catch a train for Harbin, he said, and his automobile was halted at the border for the Japanese railway town by three Japanese soldiers, apparently forming a patrol.

He alighted and displayed his diplomatic passport, attempting to explain his status in Chinese because one of the soldiers showed a knowledge of that language. One of the Japanese then became abusive and all three began beating him about the head and face with their fists.

Mr. Chamberlain retreated within his car and the soldiers followed, still striking him. He managed to get back to the consulate, where he was found to be suffering from abrasions of the forehead and a badly bruised nose and face. He later continued his journey to Harbin.

Chinese stronghold in Manchuria to fall to the Japanese, was completed today, leaving only the mopping up of irregulars to be accomplished.

Formally Enters Chinchow.

Gen. Muro, commandnig a full division of the Mikado's warriors, formally entered Chinchow at 10:40 a. m. today with the last portion of Gen. Kamura's brigade.

For almost an hour the Japanese legions poured in on trains and motor trucks, with Gen. Muro near the end of the column, riding in a train that flew the rising sun flags of Japan. He had left Kowpangtze shortly after midnight.

The division promptly moved into the well-built Chinese barracks east of the city, lately vacated by the Chinese troops ordered out of Chinchow and into China proper, behind the great wall. There was no sign that they intended to push on toward Shanhsikwan immediately.

Japanese airmen returned from scouting flights as far as Shanhaikwan to report that the evacuation of Chinese regulars from Manchuria apparently had been completed. Not a

Post Essay Contest Wins Wide Approval

Students in Metropolitan Area Show Interest in George Washington Prize Competition for $1,000; Bloom Heartily Commends Plan.

The Post George Washington Essay Contest caught the imagination of school students of the city and metropolitan area like wildfire yesterday when the first announcement of this outstanding plan to pay tribute to the Father of His Country in his bicentennial year was published in Sunday's Post.

Telephone calls galore were received by the Washington Essay Editor of The Post commending the contest and asking for further details about the $1,000 in cash prizes available to boys and girls up to 18 years of age, pupils in public, private and parochial schools of the District of Columbia, Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties, Md.; Fairfax and Arlington Counties, Va., and the City of Alexandria, Va., for the best 500-word essays written on George Washington.

Representative Sol Bloom, associate director of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission, in active charge of the Nation-wide celebration of the bicentennial of Washington, was high in his praise of The Washington Post for its patriotic enterprise in arranging for the contest.

"I commend The Post most highly," declared Representative Bloom, "for arranging this George Washington Essay Contest. It shows anew the constructive service to the community for which The Washington Post is noted. It is a good thing The Post has done this, because it affords opportunity to the young people of Washington and nearby territory to share in the patriotic enthusiasm over Washington's bicentennial being manifested throughout the country.

"The educational value of such a contest is immense. The spirit of friendly competition between the students will stimulate their interest in George Washington, his career and his times. The lessons in patriotism, valor and Americanism to be gained from study necessary to succeed in the contest will not be forgotten by those permitted to share in it. Thus real benefit will come to each and every contestant, regardless of the attractive cash prizes.

"I think The Washington Post is very generous in setting aside the $1,000 for cash prizes for the best essays received. That will put all the contestants on their mettle and make the competition very spirited. The best of luck for The Post George Washington Essay Contest!"

Other patriotic leaders, educators and those foremost in the civic life of the community were outspoken in their commendation of The Post Es-

'RELIEF' CONGRESS RECONVENES TODAY

Both Senate and House Have Plans to Expedite Aid to Needy.

(Associated Press.)

Refreshed by a Christmas respite, Congress reconvenes today to consider the most vital economic legislative problems ever to confront the country when not at war.

Both the Republican Senate and the Democratic House have plans to expedite the most important rehabilitation proposals.

President Hoover's $500,000,000 Reconsrtuction Finance Corporation has the legislative right-of-way in the Senate. The Democratic House will have before it the majority party's tariff measure.

Work on the big tax increase program will get started before the ways and means committee.

Senator Watson, Republican leader, promised yesterday the Reconstruction Finance Corporation bill and the Federal Land Bank measure increasing the capitalization of the system by $125,000,000 would be brought up for action as rapidly as possible. He regards them as "most important."

Until these measures, recommended to Congress by the President as important steps toward economic rehabilitation, are reported by the Senate banking committee, the Senate may consider the Capper-Wheeler bill to authorize the Farm Board to turn over 40,000,000 bushels of wheat to feed the hungry.

The Senate also faces again its row over the reelection of Senator Moses of New Hampshire as president pro tempore, with the Northwestern independents still insistent on unseating him.

The Democratic joint Senate-House policy committee meets this morning to approve a party tariff bill, which is slated for action in the House before the end of the week. The Democrats expect to send a balanced revenue increasing bill to the Senate by February 1.

Virtually every congressional committee will get to work on the scores of pending proposals during the week. The House appropriations committee will report favorably today the first urgent deficiency bill to take care of

Head of the firm of Darr & Darr, his son, Sefton, being associated with him, he has practiced law in the District for 35 years. His offices are located in the Woodward Building.

Mr. Darr was educated in the public schools of the District. While quite young he embarked in the business world with the Duncanson Bros., commission merchants. Leaving this firm, he entered business on his own account.

Argentine Revolt Quelled After 3 Are Killed, 7 Shot

Federals Rout Rebels From Town Seized Early in Day.

Buenos Aires, Jan. 3 (U.P.).—Government forces took possession of the town of La Paz, in the province of Entre Rios, without a struggle late today, Minister of Interior Octavio Pico announced tonight. Rebel leaders, who captured La Paz earlier in the day after killing three and wounding seven of the town's defenders, escaped to the nearby pampas. Fifty rebels were captured by the federals.

Apparently troops had been expected to join in the uprising, but none did so. The revolt was said to have been confined to about 200 armed civilians. Most of the rebels were captured during the afternoon.

It was generally believed that Mario Kennedy, M. L. Toranzo Pomar, Benjamin Abalos, former minister of public works, and others who had been deported by the present government, that of Jose F. Uriburu, were involved as leaders of the movement.

The rebels, reported to have entered the province by way of the nearby

VINSON TO URGE $700,000,000 IN NAVAL BUILDING

120 CRAFT INCLUDED IN LATEST ESTIMATE

All but 2 for Replacement; Arms Limitation Group Awaiting Dawes.

(Associated Press.)

Talk of arms limitation merged yesterday with the announcement that a Navy program for $700,000,000 worth of new warships has been completed.

Chairman Vinson, of the House naval committee, said he would introduce today a bill for 120 new vessels costing $616,250,000. All of these but two aircraft carriers, he emphasized, will replace over-age and obsolescent ships.

Meanwhile, officials considered subjects likely to come before the American delegates in their preliminary talk tomorrow on the February Geneva conference.

Mr. Vinson's 10-year program, drawn with the assistance and approval of the Navy general board, also calls for the completion of sixteen ships now under construction at a cost of $91,500,000. These include seven 8-inch gun, 10,000-ton cruisers, a controversial type much discussed at past disarmament meetings and due to figure in the new negotiations. Foreign nations have contended for smaller type cruisers.

Navy's Plans Modified.

At the same time, it was emphasized the Navy has somewhat modified its plans for the 8-inch gun ships now on the ways. Antirolling tanks are being added, additional armor is being placed, and the anti-aircraft guns are being changed and given more protection. Most of these changes were decided upon several months ago after tests of the recently launched Pensacola were completed.

Disarmament discussion centered about the scheduled arrival in New York today of Ambassador Charles G. Dawes, one of the United States delegates, who will come to Washington tomorrow. Here he will meet Senator Swanson (Democrat), Virginia; Dr. Mary Emma Woolley, of Mount Holyoke College; Norman Davis, of New York, and State and Navy Department officials to decide what policies will be pursued at Geneva

The two other American delegates named so far—Minister Hugh R. Wilson, alternate, and Ambassador Hugh S. Gibson—will join the other delegates in Switzerland. Both have been in the United States recently, discussing disarmament questions with the administration.

Must Decide Attitudes.

The conferees must decide what attitude they will adopt toward the restriction of aircraft, the budgetary system of reduction and any possible discussion of the size of battleships.

The position on the latter point already is crystallizing. Washington officials will suggest postponement of that question since it must come up in 1935 before the London treaty expires and most countries are in agreement against the construction of new battleships.

Ethel Peters Butler to Be Bride of Lieut. Wehle, Marine Corps.

Newton Square, Pa., Jan. 3 (A.P.).—Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler and Mrs. Butler today announced the engagement of their daughter, Ethel Peters Butler, to Lieut. John Wehle, United States Marine Corps. The wedding date has not been set.

Miss Butler, who made her debut in Philadelphia several years ago, studied at Darlington Seminary, West Chester, Pa., and at Miss Ferris' School in Paris.

She met Lieut. Wehle, son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Wehle, of Norwalk, Conn., at the Quantico, Va., Marine Corps Barracks, where Gen. Butler was post commander. Lieut. Wehle, now stationed at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, at that time was stationed in Quantico, a member of Gen. Butler's command.

Detroit Girl Identifies Man as Her Kidnaper

Detroit, Jan. 3 (A.P.).—A man who said he was Tony Custello was identified today by Miss Priscilla Dunlap, 18, as a Chicago gangster, who kidnaped her in March, 1927, and forced her, under threats of death, to travel with him through several States for three years.

She eluded him in June, 1930, and wired her home here from Bloomington, Ill., for money to return. Miss Dunlap said Custello lived at Capone's reputed headquarters in a Chicago hotel. He was arrested when officers said they saw him annoying a 12-year-old girl in a theater and is held for investigation.

KILLERS OF SIX POLICE HUNTED IN KANSAS CITY

KIN OF DESPERADOES ARE PLACED IN JAIL

Airplanes Aid Posses in Great Ozark Mountain Manhunt.

Springfield, Mo., Jan. 3 (A.P.).—While the Ozark Hills' greatest manhunt was prosecuted by posses, airplanes and bloodhounds in quest of the slayers of six peace officers in a farmyard massacre, police and vigilantes tonight had rounded up six members of the suspected wholesale killer's family.

The objects of the widespread search—Harry Young, 27, and his brother, Jenninga Young, 29—had eluded posses in the usually peaceful suburban farm area 4 miles southwest of here, but were reported seen in Kansas City.

Officers and civilians combed the countryside in vain, and with nightfall they withdrew from the section within 5 miles of the farmyard, which the two brothers turned into a shambles yesterday while resisting arrest of Harry Young on a murder charge.

Two Seen in Kansas City.

R. S. Champ, Kansas City tire shop proprietor, tonight identified police pictures of Harry Young as one of three men who came to his shop in a motor car this afternoon and asked to store the machine there. The men departed when told the shop did not have a garage connection.

Champ also identified another rogues' gallery picture of Charles Floyd, alleged killer and escaped convict, as another of the group. He said Young wore a bloody sheet around his right arm nd that when the trio left one of them said, "We'll just go on down there," but did not elaborate further on their destination.

Champ asserted the men came to his East Side shop near the entrance of Highway No. 4 to Kansas City, about 2 o'clock, drove in and asked to lave the car until night.

Police, to whom Champ reported the occurence, said the tire dealer's description of Floyd was perfect. Police throughout the city tonight were notified of the shop proprietor's story.

Woman Refuses Pair Food.

Oscar Young, another brother, was arrested with his wife today, and admitted being at his mother's farmhouse prior to the shooting yesterday, but denied he was present during the firing. Because of his previous good record, authorities were inclined to believe his story.

Search for Harry and Jennings Young was intensified when the pair stopped at the home of E. T. Page, Springfield grocer, and demanded breakfast for three from Page's wife, who was at home alone.

She refused to comply and the men disappeared in a thicket behind the house after assuring her they were not "the boys they are looking for." Mrs. Page believed one was armed. His hip pocket bulged. The aroused citizenry joined officers, armed and unarmed, in a frantic

Borah Is Guest Of Polish Envoy

Senator Has Luncheon at Embassy, Despite Recent Flare-Up in Views.

(Associated Press.)

Senator Borah and Ambassador Filipowicz, of Poland, broke bread together yesterday apparently unmindful of their recent exchange of conflicting views on the troublesome Polish corridor question.

The Idaho Republican independent made it clear his luncheon visit to the Polish Embassy was "purely social." It was understood there was no discussion of the corridor or a carryover of the widely published conversations between the two during Premier Laval's October visit to Washington.

Senator Borah, in an interview with French newspapermen accompanying Laval, advocated abolition of the Polish corridor through the revision of the Versailles treaty. Later he met Ambassador Filipowicz at a reception and they aired conflicting views. Both said they had parted at that time each with his own beliefs unchanged.

BRITISH SEIZE GANDHI AND PREPARE TO MEET 'NON-VIOLENT' REVOLT

MAHATMA GANDHI.

(Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press.)

Bombay, Monday, Jan. 4.—Mahatma Gandhi was arrested early today for the second time within a year and a half and Nationalist India once more girded itself for "nonviolent" war on Great Britain.

President Vallabhai Patel, of the Indian Nationalist Congress, also was taken into custody. Both were arrested under a Bombay regulation of 1827 and the warrant stated that they were being removed to Yerawda Jail at Poona for "good and sufficient reasons."

Viceroy Lord Willingdon's drastic move was made after eleventh hour attempts of moderate Nationalist leaders to bring about a compromise had failed. Gandhi postponed a scheduled trip to the shrine at Ahmedabad in the hope that he could come to an agreement with the viceroy over the new ordinances against agitation and save the nation from a revival of last year's civil disobedience campaign.

Gandhi Arrested in Sleep.

Gandhi was arrested as he was sleeping peacefully on the stone floor of his tattered tent atop one of Bombay's tenements. He received the warrant from the head of the Bombay police with perfect serenity and smilingly handed it to his son, Davidas, without comment, this being his day of silence.

Forty minutes later he was whisked through Bombay's darkened streets toward Poona, where he will be lodged in the same prison he left less than a year ago.

As he emerged from his tent, flanked by Mrs. Ganghi and Miss Madeline Slade, he spotted the Associated Press correspondent through the darkness and gave him a resounding whack on the back. He put his slender arm around the reporter and handed him a hurriedly penciled note. Then he entered a swift American automobile which the police had waiting for him.

Draws American Parallel.

Vallabhai Patel, shortly after his arrest, appointed Babu Rejendra Prasad, of Behar, to succeed him as president of the Congress.

"Even as America won its independence through suffering, valor and sacrifice," said the mahatma's note, "so shall India, in God's good time, achieve her freedom by suffering, sacrifice and nonviolence."

"They are coming, they are coming," cried disciples of Gandhi, standing on a balcony, as the police arrived at the mahatma's house. The cry was taken up by Miss Slade, who rushed to the side of the sleeping leader.

"Bapoo, Bapoo," she said softly as she shook her "master." "The police are here."

Did Not Have to Dress.

"Usher them in," said Gandhi, rubbing his half-opened eyes. "They are welcome."

It was 3:05 a. m. when Police Commissioner Gerald Wilson served the mahatma with the warrant for his arrest. One policeman rushed to the telephone to prevent its use, while another stood guard at the gate to Gandhi's house.

Gandhi bowed, smiled broadly at the police commissioner, who said, "Mr. Gandhi, you have half an hour to dress and pack."

The mahatma, however, who sleeps in his loincloth, did not have to dress and Miss Slade already had packed his few simple belongings, including his spinning wheel.

Gandhi then wrote a few farewell messages, including one to Vallabhai Patel, of whose arrest he had not yet heard.

Willingdon's Ultimatum.

British authorities served an ultimatum on Gandhi yesterday, once

U. S. REPORT SHOWS LOWER DEATH RATES

Public Health Service Data Held to Refute Reports of Malnutrition.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Additional evidence that the cities and counties are coping with the winter's emergency relief problems was presented yesterday by Surgeon Gen. Hugh S. Cumming, of the Public Health Service.

In a special report covering the calendar year 1931 Dr. Cumming set at rest alarmist reports that malnutrition threatened to undermine the health of the Nation.

The infant and child death rates for the country as a whole have been lower this winter than last, despite the severity of the economic depression, and the health of adult groups, as indicated by the national mortality tables, continues to show the same improvement trend noted in recent normal years.

"Iam very glad to be abble to report to you," the surgeon general said in a covering letter to President Hoover, "that despite the economic depression throughout this country during the past year we have every reason to be thankful that in the matter of the most important wealth of the people, their health, the country has never been as prosperous in its history as during the year 1931."

The general mortality rate for the year was as low as that of 1930 and definitely lower than during the previous two years. These statistics were gathered by telegraph from 82 cities. They showed a death rate of 11.7 per thousand of population in 1931 against 11.9 per thousand in 1930. In 48 of the 82 cities the 1931 death rate was below that of 1930 and in six other communities it was unchanged.

Checking these reports against some 75,000,000 holders of industrial insurance policies, the Public Health Service found the general death rate for 1931 to be the same as in 1930, but "appreciably below the 1928 and 1929 rates."

Even more favorable were the comparisons made for the last three months of 1931 with the corresponding quarters of the three previous years. These winter months normally bring the higher mortality rates. This winter the three months' rate in 82 principal cities was 10.7 deaths per 1,000 against 11.4 in 1929, 12 in the last quarter of 1929 and 13.2 in the same period of 1928.

Among the industrial policy holders the winter mortality in 1931 was 8.7

Former Kaiser Ill Abed With Influenza Attack

Doorn, Holland, Jan. 3 (A.P.).—Former Kaiser Wilhelm was ill in bed tonight with a slight attack of influenza and cold which he apparently caught sawing wood during the recent frigid spell.

While there was no anxiety regarding his illness, it increased the depression prevailing in the Hohenzollern residence because of the serious illness of Wilhelm's sister, former Queen Sophie of Greece.

HOOVER WOULD BEAT WET, CANNON HOLDS

President Is Unquestionably Dry, Bishop States; Sees His Nomination.

Richmond, Va., Jan. 3 (A.P.).—Bishop James Cannon, jr., today said President Hoover is unquestionably for strict enforcement of the eighteenth amendment, and that Democrats should refrain from nominating a "wet" if they desire to avoid a repetition of 1928.

The bishop spoke before the Federation of Men's Bible Classes of South Richmond, and stood without the aid of a crutch.

"This is my first speech standing up in fifteen months," he said, "and I am delighted to be able to get along without a crutch."

Bishop Cannon indicated his opinion that President Hoover will be the Republican candidate for reelection this year, and he said: "I want my party to nominate a man who will take the whole prohibition issue out of the campaign. I want the Democrats to nominate a man who will be as flat-footed on the prohibition question as Mr. Hoover."

He said the President's prohibition pronouncements in his message to Congress accompanying the Wickersham report indicated his platform stand on the prohibition question.

The Bible Class Federation had invited the bishop to speak on the subject of law observance and law enforcement with particular reference to the eighteenth amendment.

He asserted that the "wets" have not presented any workable plan as a substitute and said: "I don't know what they want, except they want liquor." He predicted that any nominee of any party who is not willing to protect and defend the eighteenth amendment is doomed to defeat. He said prohibition advocates had asserted that in 1928 and added: "We can tell them in advance now."

He read from a newspaper clipping quoting the president of the Woman's Organizaton for National Prohibition Reform as saying revenues would be increased by millions of dollars, making it possible to reduce income taxes, if the eighteenth amendment were changed. This, he said, would mean taking money from the homes of weak husbands, and reducing income taxes for millionaires "like John J. Raskob."

The bishop reviewed his fight for prohibition, which he said started in

New Hampshire Town Hit by $1,000,000 Fire

Dover, N. H., Jan. 3 (U.P.).—Fire today destroyed the Morrell block in the business section here, drove scores of residents and persons living nearby into stormswept streets and caused damage estimated by Fire Chief Carroll Mack at $1,000,000.

A northeast wind carried embers through the city as the five-story wooden structure burned rapidly to the ground. Fearful that the blaze might spread, fire department officials called aid from nine departments in three States. A heavy fall of snow, however, extinguished the embers before they could do damage

Youth Whose Prank Ousted Him at Annapolis Ends Life

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 3 (A.P.).—John A. Cygon, 19, whose electrical experiments in the dormitory of the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis in November, 1930, led to his resignation, took his life here today.

He was found dead in his bed this morning by his father, Col. Joseph R. Sygon, U. S. A., attached to the Third Corps Area. In one hand the youth clutched a tube of a chemical used in hospitals to deaden pain. The coroner gave a verdict of suicide.

Announcing the resignation of the young man from the Naval Academy officers said he had established a system of remote control in his room by which he could operate the elevators, the lighting system and even the telephones.

The case, at the time, received Nation-wide attention. After his resignation he was offered positions by several firms interested in his knowledge of electricity. He declined all offers, however, and announced he desired to enter West Point.

He returned to school here and later it was announced he had received a conditional appointment to the Military Academy from the President. Last March he was named second alternate to take entrance examinations with a view toward admission July 1.

RAIL RATE RISE WILL BE PUT IN EFFECT TODAY

Emergency Boost I. C. C. Allowed Expected to Halt Failures.

SUPREME COURT DUE TO GIVE GRAIN RULING

(Associated Press.)

The great railroad systems of the United States today will begin charging increased freight rates to aid those carriers in financial difficulties.

With several well-known lines already in bankruptcy and others faced by inability to pay interest on bonds, the Interstate Commerce Commission last week authorized the carriers to make emergency surcharges on freight bills effective today. These were approved several weeks ago.

The increases range from 6 cents per ton on certain types of freight in carloads to 2 cents per 100 pounds on other classes in less than carload shipments. They are expected by the commission to realize over $100,000,000 for the roads.

Ends 7-Month Fight.

The effectiveness of the rates ends seven months of effort by the railroads acting cooperatively to get freight rate increases. Hearings were held in every section of the country on an appeal for a blanket 15 per cent increase.

The Interstate Commerce Commission turned down the 15 per cent plea, but authorized the surcharges. The roads were permitted to work out their own scheme whereby the Railroad Credit Corporation will collect the money from eligible carriers and loan it to needy ones.

Roads such as the Wabash Railway, the Seaboard Air Line, the Florida East Coast, the Ann Arbor Railroad and others in bankruptcy or which have defaulted on their bond interest are ineligible for loans. They are permitted to increase rates, however, and keep the proceeds.

Limited to March, 1933.

The plan is effective for the period of the emergency and not longer than March 31, 1933. The railroads and the Interstate Commerce Commission hope the result will prevent any more bankruptcies and tide the carriers over to better times.

The American Railway Association yesterday issued a statement of prospective carloadings for the next three months. Taking figures they say have been submitted by shippers to the shippers' regional advisory boards, it estimated approximate carloadings at 5,241,746 cars, a reduction of 6.6 per cent from the first quarter of 1931. All sections except the Southwest reported prospective decreases. The Southwest expects an increase of four-tenths of 1 per cent.

Annual railroad revenues of $20,000,000 will be affected by a Supreme Court decision expected today on grain rates.

27 Decisions Prepared.

During the Christmas recess, preparatory to its first 1932 session, the court has been preparing 26 other decisions in which railroads were parties to eleven and six were caused by taxation matters.

Carriers protested when the commission last August lowered freight rates on grain and grain products, acting under the Hoch-Smith resolution in which Congress directed the lowest possible railroad charges on agricultural products.

The roads complained they needed aid themselves, and pointed to their petition for a flat 15 per cent freight rate increase. They criticized the commission's refusal to grant them a rehearing in view of changing conditions. While the commission had completed its investigation, from which the reduction of approximately 13 per cent resulted, in September, 1928, the order was not issued until July 1, 1930.

Other Rulings Expected.

Other cases expected to be decided include:

The validity of Interstate Commerce Commission orders regulating rail rates from and to New Orleans o certain commodities moving in foreign and coastwise commerce.

A commission order authorizing the Long Island Railroad to abandon its Whitestone Branch, brought by New York State and its transit commission.

Mail Bomb Probe Seems at Standstill

Federal Authorities and Police Appear to Be Without Clews.

New York, Jan. 3 (A.P.).—So far as announced results were concerned, the police of New York and the Nation apparently were stymied tonight in their search for the perpetrators of last week's bomb outrages.

With the dead in Easton, Pa., as the result of Wednesday's explosions, and the lives of many more threatened by a dozen infernal machines discovered in other cities in the mails or express packages, there appeared no definite clew on which investigators could put their finger with assurance of success.

The most tangible lead came from here, where the police broadcast a general alarm for an unnamed individual described only as being affiliated with "Communist and Anarchist" groups. An official who refused to be quoted said this alarm was based on unconfirmed reports that persons using the name of the Soviet government have planned a campaign of terrorization by bombs.

U. S. Offers Cheap Ration Sufficient for Family of 5

One Form Provides Foods in Quantities on Which Health Can Be Maintained; Needy May Get Along Awhile on Other.

(Associated Press.)

For those who find it hard to make both ends meet, the Bureau of Home Economics and the Extension Service of the Agriculture Department have prepared two low-cost weekly food rations for the family.

Each is balanced, containing the necessary kinds of food materials—starch, fat, protein, minerals and vitamins. One provides the smallest quantities of the cheapest of the necessary kinds of food on which a family of five can live in health. The other gives the smallest quantities on which the same family can "get along for a while."

The first ration, supplying the body needs with a margin of safety:

Thirty pounds of bread, flour and other grain products; 28 quarts of milk; 20 pounds of potatoes; 1 pound of dried beans or peas; 6 pounds of canned or fresh tomatoes; 10 pounds of greens; 10 pounds of other vegetables and fruits; 3 pounds of butter, lard, bacon and other fats; 3 pounds of sugar, molasses and sorgo sirup; 7 pounds of lean meat, fish or cheese, and 1 dozen of eggs.

The second ration, providing no margin for emergencies:

Twenty pounds of bread, flour and other grain products; 10 quarts of milk; 10 pounds of potatoes; 3 pounds of dried beans or peas; 2 pounds of tomatoes; 5 pounds of greens; 8 pounds of other vegetables and fruits; 5 pounds of butter, lard, bacon and other fats; 5 pounds of sugar, molasses, sorgo sirup; 5 pounds of lean meat, fish or cheese, and a half dozen eggs.

WHEELER TO FATHER '16-TO-1' SILVER BILL

Measure He Will Introduce Today Will End Slump, Senator Asserts.

(Associated Press.)

The "16-to-1" silver issue, on which William Jennings Bryan rode to the threshold of the White House in 1896, was revived yesterday by Senator Wheeler as the Nation faced a new presidential election year.

The Montana Democrat announced he would introduce today a bill providing for the free coinage of silver on the basis of 16 ounces to one of gold—the identical issue for which Bryan fought.

"This legislation would do more than all suggestions heretofore combined toward reviving, encouraging, vitalizing and resuscitating business in this country and throughout the world," Wheeler said.

World Conference Sought.

Senator Wheeler, who ran for Vice President in 1924 on the La Follette Independent ticket, announced his bill after a year of agitation in Congress and elsewhere for some action to revive the price of silver, which has fallen to less than half what it was two or three years ago.

The Senate last year passed a resolution favoring an international conference to rehabilitate silver, but such a conference has not materialized.

Some of those advocating a silver conference have favored the double monetary standard, but others have shied away from it, contending it was not necessary to restore the value of the white metal.

In announcing his bill, Wheeler said it would rapidly solve the unemployed labor problem and benefit both capital and labor.

Sees Orient's Trade Regained.

"What my bill proposes to do is to put more dollars in circulation," he said, "make it possible for us to regain our lost trade in the Orient by increasing their purchasing power and make it possible for the debtor classes to pay the debts with dollars of the same value as when they borrowed the money—in other words—so the farmer will not have to give more bushels of wheat or more bales of cotton than he would have had to do at the time he contracted his debts and placed a mortgage on his farm."

Wheeler contended that within a year after the enactment of his bill the price of wheat, cotton and all agricultural products would be more than trebled in monetary value, that agricultural land values would be more than quadrupled, and the purchasing power of more than 50 per cent of the world's population would be quadrupled.

per thousand, against 9 per thousand in 1930 and 9.4 in 1928.

Low Infant Rate Record.

The 1931 rate of infant mortality was lower than for any year on record. In the 70 largest cities the infant death rate was 55.8 for every thousand of population under one year of age. In 1930 the figure was 58.1 for the same age group. In this respect 1930 had been the most favorable year in history.

"This especially creditable showing has persisted during the last weeks of the year," Surgeon General Cumming emphasized, "the rate for the final quarter being 46.6 against an average of 56.9 for the corresponding period in the three preceding years."

The previous low winter quarter record was registered in 1929, at 51.9 deaths per thousand during the last three months of the year.

Charitable Doctors Praised.

Despite an increase in malnutrition among children in scattered local areas, reports for the country as a whole "show an improvement in this condition."

"Many more people are asking for charity medical services and this gives the impression at first that there is an increase in sickness, but to counterbalance this there are many reports of decreases in paid medical practice. To meet this added burden upon free clinics and hospitals, there has been an increase in local contributions for such purposes."

Gen. Cumming lauded the members of the medical profession for their generous contributions of service to distressed families. Such services have enabled many to escape the charity clinics, and to that extent have lightened the burden on the communities.

MEASURE PREPARED TO HASTEN BUILDING

(Associated Press.)

Legislation to enact President Hoover's recommendation for pooling all Federal construction activities into a single unit better equipped to speed public building has been prepared by Chairman Cochran, of the House expenditures committee.

A new Government agency, known as "administration of public works" would be created in a bill the Missouri Democrat plans to introduce today.

"Its purpose is to accelerate public construction in periods of depression and to provide for a more effective coordination and correlation of the public works function of the Government," he said yesterday.

He added:

"I realize this is a very far-reaching proposal, but the President in his message recommended to the Congress such legislation. While not supplied with any details other than reading in the public press the President's recommendation, the bill covers, at least in part, the views of the President."

Chief features of the bill are:

It provides an administrator of public works at $15,000 a year, appointed by the President for fifteen years and working chiefly under his direction.

This official would control the design, construction and maintenance of all Federal public buildings and works, including railroads, highways, roads, bridges, telephone and telegraph lines, buildings, monuments, parks, irrigation and water supply systems, dams, canals and river and harbor improvements.

Special provisions would be made in connection with the use of Army and naval engineers.

LaGuardia Draws Bank Guaranty Bill

Opposes Early Enactment of Hoover Fiscal Plan; Will Ask Fund.

(Associated Press.)

New opposition to immediate enactment of President Hoover's Reconstruction Finance Corporation bill developed yesterday on Capitol Hill.

Representative LaGuardia, New York Republican, announced he would resist consideration of the administration proposal until Congress does something to create a guaranty fund which would protect depositors in banks that have failed.

The House banking committee will meet early in the week to resume hearings on the Finance Corporation bill. President Hoover has asked leaders in both the House and Senate to speed their work on this proposal.

Perkin Medal Awarded To New York Chemist

New York, Jan. 3 (A.P.).—To Dr. Charles Frederick Burgess, native of Oshkosh, Wis., and now of New York, goes the 1932 Perkin medal awarded annually to the "American chemist who has most distinguished himself by his services to applied chemistry."

Dr. Burgess, who was a member of the faculty of the University of Wisconsin for five years after his graduation, devised a method for sterilizing liquids with nascent chlorine, used in hospitals to treat infected wounds and by explorers to sterilize drinking

Armaments Hit By Cuban Jurist

(Associated Press.)

Antonio Sanchez de Bustamante, of Cuba, judge of the Permanent Court of International Justice, yesterday contributed a criticism of military armaments to the semi-monthly notes published by the National Council for Prevention of War.

"Due to physical law and perhaps a moral one as well," he wrote, "strength produces in those who possess it an irrepressible desire to use it and to display it. For that reason, military armaments are a suggestive urge to wars. They give an impression, frequently erroneous, of a sure victory and lead to an abuse of power in any case, on occasions consciously, the abuser being backed by the physical superiority that is his, or that is attributed to him.

"On the other hand, the one who feels himself the weaker, for his security and his future, aims at the destruction of the alien power, seeking in political alliances or in other factors, among them incessant and immoderate increase of armaments, the way to overcome his natural enemy.

"All this is done at the cost of imposing on the taxpayer an onerous burden that represents a very greatly increased percentage of the budgets of every nation."

REVISE TREATY ALSO, REPLY TO DEBT PLEA

Britten Says Land Allies Got Under Pact Paid Them Cost of War.

(Associated Press.)

A Republican representative said last night he thought that if foreign powers continued to show "unmitigated gall" and ask cancellation of war debts they likewise should agree to revision of the Treaty of Versailles.

Then Representative Britten, of Illinois, made this prophecy:

"Congress has reached the end of its benevolence and will be duped no longer. There will be no further sentimental extensions or reductions. The World War was a European institution and its effect should be settled by the European governments involved."

Foreseeing the drive for reduction that Democratic Leader Rainey has said could be expected in June, Britten injected into his statement reference to German colonies given to allied powers under the Versailles Treaty.

"No one can estimate the physical value of the territory acquired by the victors of the World War, but it is quite reasonable to assume that it is worth many times the amount Germany is expected to pay under the Young plan," Britten said. "England and France extorted from Germany more than a million square miles of territory and a population of 9,000,000 people in eastern and western South Africa and certain Pacific islands.

"Aside from the terrible sacrifice of life in a war which has been found in vain, France and England have already been overpaid and should now practice what they preach, cancel all reparations payments and rewrite the Treaty of Versailles."

Capital Man Trustee Of Printing Pressmen

Pressmen's Home, Tenn., Jan. 3 (A.P.).—Reelection of Maj. George L. Berry, president of the International Printing Pressmen and Assistants Union of North America, and other officers for four-year terms, was announced here today. The announcement said final returns of nominations showed all officials renominated, which constitutes election without opposition.

Home and school trustees included Norbert Berger, Buffalo, N. Y.; Otto Huber, Denver; James H. Brooks, Portland, Oreg.; Curtis White, Indianapoli; J. Herbert De La Rosa, San Francisco, and R. A. Dickson, Washington, D. C.

Two Hurt in Crash Flee Mysteriously

Vanish After Their Auto, Believed Stolen, Hits Bus.

Two men, injured when a roadster crashed into the rear of a Washington Railway and Electric Co. bus at Ammendale, Md., Saturday night, are being sought in Washington by authorities. Maryland State police said they believed the automobile in which they were riding was stolen from S. L. Powers, of Baltimore.

The bus, with three passengers aboard, had stopped at Ammendale to permit an elderly man to alight when the roadster crashed into it. Police said a man who said he was a New Jersey physician on his way South took the two men from the wreckage of the roadster and headed toward Washington.

Washington hospitals were checked, but the two were not found in any of them.

Vitamin D Believed Isolated in London

London, Jan. 3 (A.P.).—Dr. Robert Bourdillon announced today that after months of experimenting at the National Institute for Medical Research he and a group of five London scientists had isolated a substance they believed to be pure vitamin D.

"We have isolated a pure white crystalline substance which we have named calciferol and which we have every reason to believe is pure vitamin D," he said. "It is certainly vitamin D in a purer state than has ever existed."

CONGRESS RECONVENES TODAY TO SPEED RELIEF MEASURES

immediate needs of various departments to tide them over until the new fiscal year beginning June 30.

Hearings will begin before Senate committees on prohibition and the controversial naval program. The inquiry into foreign bond flotations in this country will be resumed.

The House judiciary committee plans to decide during the week on whether hearings will be held on the prohibition question. The anti-prohibitionists are soliciting names of members on a petition to force a vote, probably in March, on the wet and dry question.

Put Relief Measures First.

Speaker Garner and Representative Rainey, majority leader, have served notice on the House antiprohibitionists that only one vote can be had on the question this session and then only after the economic measures have been disposed of.

The House banking committee expects to submit the $500,000,000 reconstruction finance corporation for action within a fortnight. Hearings now will be resumed.

Secretary Mellon and Undersecretary Mills, of the Treasury, are expected by Chairman Collier to present the administration's tax plan to the ways and means committee at the opening hearings Thursday.

Deficit Is Important Task.

The problem of meeting the prospective $2,000,000,000 or more Treasury deficit is considered the most important hurdle the Democratic House faces. Meantime, the House appropriations committee expects to carve the big supply bills to a minimum. The issue over slashing salaries of Government employes is to come before both the appropriations and the expenditures committees.

On Wednesday the controversy over building up the Navy will be considered by the Senate naval committee. Secretary Adams is slated as the first witness. Indications are that the dispute between the Navy League and President Hoover over the administration's naval policies will be aired.

Also, Chairman Vinson plans to call the House naval committee to consider the Navy's $616,250,000 new building program, that he announced he would sponsor.

Pinchot Due to Testify.

Gov. Pinchot of Pennsylvania is expected to testify before the La Follette committee on numerous proposals to give direct Federal aid to the unemployed when hearings are resumed today.

Among other things Congress will consider during the five months before the political conventions are:

A rivers and harbors bill, payment in full of the adjusted service certificates held by World War veterans, consolidation of Government activities, the farm relief debenture plan, a revision of the bankruptcy laws, railroad and public utility holding company legislation, and the creation of a home loan bank system.

Urges Trade Pacts.

As the Democrats prepared to push their tariff measure through the House, Senator Connally, of Texas, through the Democratic national committee, said:

"The Democrats in Congress can not revise the tariff with the administration brandishing a veto. The executive can negotiate with foreign nations for reciprocal tariff adjustments and submit the results to Congress.

"Merely more loans and more credit will not revive business."

Connally said "reciprocal trade arrangements and tariff agreements with foreign nations ought to be undertaken."

Scores Homeless In Glasgow Flood

More Than 2,000 Families Destitute as Rains Swell Two Rivers.

Glasgow, Jan. 3 (U.P.).—More than 2,000 families were made homeless tonight in this city and its environs when the rising waters of the Clyde and Cart Rivers created the worst flood conditions ever to prevail in this section.

Rain has been falling since Friday morning, and a fall of 4 inches had been recorded tonight. No loss of life had been reported.

Low-lying streets were flooded to a depth of 6 feet, and the water reached the top of motor buses in the East End of the city, imprisoning the passengers. Railroad service was disrupted when bridges across the Clyde were closed as a precautionary measure. In the Cathcart district, police and firemen used rowboats to rescue terrified women and children.

KINDLER CONCERT IS WELL RECEIVED

Symphony Orchestra Again Draws Praise; Rosa Low, Soprano, Scores.

That Washington appreciates the popular afternoon concerts of the National Symphony Orchestra was demonstrated again in Constitution Hall yesterday when an enthusiastic audience greeted a comprehensive program by the orchestra under the inspired leadership of Hans Kindler, with Miss Rosa Low, soprano, as soloist of the afternoon.

The excellence of the orchestra continues and each concert marks improvement, showing with what zest and determination Hans Kindler and his musical men are working toward their ideal of a permanent symphony orchestra organization in the Capital of the Nation. Added smoothness, vividness of interpretation and an ensemble tone of increasing beauty were marked in yesterday's concert which was given under the management of Mrs. Wilson-Greene.

Seldom has Mendelssohn's lovely overture, "The Hebrides," been presented at so good advantage as it was yesterday. Kindler skillfully read into his interpretation the inmost soul of the master musician who wrote it, and the applause at its conclusion was genuinely enthusiastic.

Miss Low produced a favorable impression in her first song, an "aria" from Mozart's "Idomeneo." It was sung with artistry and her voice is of golden tone, smooth in all the registers. The difficult measures of this composition were handled with ease and musicianship.

One of the most entrancing numbers of the program was the playing by the orchestra of "The Romeo and Juliet Fantasy Overture," by Tschaikovsky. In this number Mr. Kindler showed prowess as a conductor, eliciting from the musicians an excellent rendition and music of a high order.

Miss Low was well received in another operatic aria, the familiar "Depuis le Jour," from Charpentier's "Louise." The audience encored her so persistently that Miss Low finally had to explain that her accompanist had not arrived and she could not sing an encore for that reason. The accompaniment by the orchestra in both her arias was nicely played so as not to overshadow the singer's voice, but to give her the necessary support.

This should be counted as another achievement for the orchestra as well as its admirable work in the last two numbers of the program, "Pavane," by Maurice Ravel, and "Espana," by Chabrier.

Coast Democrats Start Here to Get Convention

San Francisco, Jan. 3 (A.P.).—Democratic leaders of California prepared tonight to depart for Washington, D. C., tomorrow and Tuesday to seek the 1932 Democratic national convention for San Francisco.

The leaders will carry with them a certified check for $150,000 to back their invitation. Justus S. Wardell, chairman of the executive committee of the State Democratic organization, said the contenders for the convention had narrowed to San Francisco and Chicago, and asserted many favorable responses to this city's invitation had been received.

SALVADOR'S REGIME HELD SATISFACTORY

U. S. Decision Lamented, but Popular Support for New Ruler Is Claimed.

San Salvador, Jan. 3 (U.P.).—Although lamenting the decision of the United States not to recognize the new government of Maximiliano Hernandez Martinez, a high official of the government has pointed out that the new régime has fulfilled all the constitutional requirements and controls the entire country.

Tranquillity of the republic of El Salvador is sufficient evidence, it was asserted that the Martinez government has popular support. In connection with the so-called Washington pact of 1923, cited by the United States State Department as its reason for withholding recognition, it was pointed out that articles 1 and 2 of the pact should not apply to El Salvador because Congress had rejected them, whereas the silence of other Central American countries regarding El Salvador's reservations to the pact implied assent to the reservations.

The present intention of the new government of El Salvador is to demonstrate factually that their regime is genuinely representative of the people and strong enough to maintain law and order and to protect the country's domestic and foreign interests.

Peru Acts to Curb Political Agitators

Lima, Peru, Jan. 3 (A.P.).—A law intended to curb political agitators in Peru has been proposed in the National Assembly by the minister of interior. The measure, prompted by attempted uprisings recently at Trujillo and Hualgayoc, would make rebellious propaganda punishable by a fine, imprisonment or exile.

Among the forbidden activities would be "publication or transmission of news harming the country's good reputation or tending to disturb internal peace and order," violent activities with political or social objects, statements or activities derogatory to national institutions or representatives, and the unauthorized possession or arms or explosives.

Brazil May Renew Mission Contract.

Rio de Janeiro, Jan. 3 (U.P.).—The provisional government, it is understood, is willing to renew the contract of the French military mission, providing the number of instructors is reduced by one-half. The services of the United States naval mission were dispensed with last year, for financial reasons at the expiration of the mission's contract.

Trade Treaty Approved. 4 4

Montevideo, Uruguay, Jan. 3 (A.P.). A proposal for reciprocal trade relations between Uruguay and Brazil has been approved at the economic conference meeting here. It will be submitted to both governments. The project would include a quota system on certain products and provide measures for preventing smuggling.

Santiago Flights Barred.

Santiago, Chile, Jan. 3 (A.P.).—Airplane flights over the capital are forbidden by the government in an effort to put an end to distribuution of communistic circulars from the air. Even planes of the army air corps must have definite orders before flying over the city.

frontiers of Brazil and Uruguay, attempted to capture the city of Concordia, but were repulsed by hastily summoned federal troops. Entre Rios is northwest of Buenos Aires.

Pamphlets asking the inhabitants of La Paz to remain loyal to the government and assuring them the rebels would be dislodged were scattered over the town by airplanes this afternoon. Vice Gov. Texier issued the following statement:

"The town of La Paz is still in the hands of the rebels, although the movement was immediately suffocated at Concordia. Airplanes flew over La Paz this morning shortly after the rebels captured the police station and dropped pamphlets issued by Gov. Etcheverry, calling on the populace not to join the revolutionists and assuring them that the uprising would be quickly dominated.

"Apparently the uprising was headed by Mario Quenediez, a well-known La Paz political leader, supported by individuals who presumably arrived from Brazil and Uruguay."

The proclamation issued by Gov. Etcheverry to the residents of La Paz said:

"Citizens of La Paz: A preposterous attempt against the government has been successful only in your city, and it will be rapidly suffocated by the numerous forces at the service of the government. The populace should remain calm, confident that order will be reestablished today and that the authors of the attempt will be submitted to competent justice."

La Paz, with several thousand population, is about 80 miles northeast of the City of Parana and is not far from the Brazil-Uruguay boundary line. Concordia, also in Entre Rios Province, has a population of 15,000 and exports large quantities of meat and Paraguay tea.

Despite optimistic statements from government and provincial officials, a rigid censorship on press dispatches to foreign countries was clamped on at noon and lifted later only to permit transmission of official and semi-official statements.

The La Paz outbreak is the third armed movement against the provisional government of Lieut. Gen. Jose Uriburu since the present administration came into power in the revolution of September, 1930. Federal troops revolted at Cordoba in January, 1931, and again at Corrientes in July. Both movements were put down by the government with little difficulty.

An entirely new government, elected last November, is scheduled to take office late this month or early next month. Observers here discounted the possibility that the La Paz movement might be supported by radical party leaders who are living in exile at Montevideo, Uruguay. The radical party was forbidden by the provisional government to enter its candidates in the recent presidential elections on the ground that it had worked actively against the best interests of the present regime.

FOURTEEN HUNDRED AND NINE H STREET

If World's Debtors Took Shine to This Idea—My!

By JOHN J. DALY

AN old Chinese custom, of long standing, decrees that a man who can not pay his debts at the beginning of a year must, perforce, walk through the streets carrying a lighted lantern.

This is the signal that the night of darkness has not passed, that the old year and its burdens still linger on, that the dawn of a new era has not broken—that the man is looking for a way out.

Just at the present moment, if the Chinese custom were to become universal, most of the premiers of Europe, representing their respective governments, would be parading the boulevards with lanterns swinging at their sides—the sign that they are not prepared to pay their debts to Uncle Sam.

John Bull, naturally, would lead the parade.

PREMIER LAVAL, frock coated and wearing his high silk hat, a bouttoniere in his lapel, would stroll along the Champs Elysee with his lantern—one of the new Parisien creations now being imported into this country.

The probability is that the man carrying the largest light would be Chancellor Bruening, of Germany—doing, as it were, a night "wacht am Rhine" in the daytime.

There would, of course, be a lot of little lantern carriers, representing the smaller nations whose debts are too big for them to worry about.

Unlike Diogenes and his lamp, looking for an honest man, these fellows would not be on any such mission—and the last person in the world they would want to see would be old Uncle Samuel himself. Their hope is that someone will tell him about the situation in Europe, where Chinese lanterns are coming into style.

* * * *

WITH the rate television is being developed—if what they say is true—it will not be very long before Secretary of the Treasury Mellon may sit in his Washington office, tune in on any foreign station, and witness the imposing spectale of European treasuries brilliantly lighted, day and night, by lantern power.

There is, of course, the probability that the debtor nations might carry the custom even farther, plead abject poverty and claim inability to purchase fuel oil for their statesmen's lanterns. In this case the use of candles would come back, thus reviving an almost defunct industry.

Some of the leading bankers of America whose indicated profits run into the millions, money made by floating foreign bonds in this country since the war, might come to the rescue of their pals overseas and furnish an inverted lighting system; but the chances are the old Chinese custom will prevail.

12 Hurt in Wreck; Body Found in Car

Split Rail Puts 3 Coaches Off Track in Nebraska; Man Killed on Freight.

Omaha, Nebr., Jan. 3 (A.P.).—A dozen passengers were reported injured, none seriously, late today when three cars of Missouri Pacific passenger train No. 103, northbound from Kansas City to Omaha, were derailed near Fort Crook, six miles south.

Railroad officials said a split rail caused the accident. The rail split after the engine and baggage car had passed over it. The last three cars were derailed and plowed up the track for three car lengths before stopping. They were not overturned. The train was carying a capacity load of 200 persons.

Shattuck, Okla., Jan. 3 (A.P.).—The body of a young man, believed by officers to be that of Ralph Boyee, Plymouth, Mich., was found in a freight car at Goodwin Switch, seven miles west of here, today. A conductor, checking doors on the train, found the body, the head pinned beneath a fallen ventilator door. Trainmen said the man boarded the train at Panhandle, Tex., and apparently was killed when he attempted to enter the car through the ventilator door. The body was brought here.

Heflin-Bankhead Hearing On Today

Capital Referee in South for Contest Is Opposed by Senator.

Birmingham, Jan. 3 (A.P.).—Harrison W. Smith of Washington, arrived here today to preside at the opening of hearings tomorrow in the contest of former Senator J. Thomas Heflin against the election of Senator John H. Bankhead, of Alabama, to the United States Senate.

Meanwhile, Senator Bankhead said he had been informed from Washington that the Senate subcommittee in charge of the contest has been called to meet tomorrow to rule on protests against the selection of Smith as commissioner in the hearings, and to determine whether the subcommittee will go into the Alabama primary of 1930.

Both Senator Bankhead and Senator Hugo Black have filed protests with Senator Daniel Hastings, of Delaware, chairman of the contest committee, against the naming of Smith.

More than 200 persons, many of them prominent in Alabama political affairs, have been summoned to testify in the hearings here.

New $5,000,000 Mart Is Saved When Missile Does Not Explode.

St. Louis, Jan. 3 (A.P.).—A bomb containing 28 sticks of dynamite and with its 5-foot fuse only partly burned was found early today just inside the entrance to the St. Louis Mart, 20-story building in the heart of the industrial district, recently completed at a cost of $5,000,000.

Discovery was made by two policemen walking a beat past the building, which is only 50 yards from Central Police Headquarters.

Police experts said that apparently inexperienced persons had lighted the fuse and that it became extinguished almost immediately.

Charles E. Richardson, president of the building corporation, said he could ascribe no motive for the bombing attempt. Only union labor was employed in the construction of the building, he said, and there had not been any difficulty between contractors and workmen.

FLOOD AREA LEVEES RESIST ONSLAUGHTS

Tallahatchie Valley Now Believed Almost Past Menace of Waters.

Clarksdale, Miss., Jan. 3 (A.P.).—Although Coldwater and Tallahatchie Rivers continued to pour a large volume of water into the Tallahatchie Valley tonight, levees protecting towns and plantations continued to hold against the tremendous pounding of the flood.

Tallahatchie Valley residents breathed easier today when Glendora, Jones, Frederic, Swan Lake, Twilight, Pattison Bayou, Grassy Lake and Matthew Bayou levees, all of which in the last 48 hours have threatened to break, went through what was generally regarded as the critical period.

B. E. Offenheiser, of Clarksdale, chief engineer of the Yazoo-Mississippi Delta Levee Board and official observer for the flood situation, said, however, that the crest of the flood would not be reached in the Glendora area until tomorrow.

Danger Still In Offing.

Offenheiser said an even more dangerous situation would arise at weakened levees when flood waters begin to recede as the dykes are likely to go out at that time. He said the situation would remain precarious throughout the week.

Water continued to rise about an inch every 24 hours at Glendora, Swan Lake, Sumner and Webb.

The most serious menace remains on the eastern side of the Tallahatchie River at Twilight, Grassy Lake and Matthew Bayou, which are being protected by plantation labor because of the inability of convict workers to get across the swollen stream, which is three or four miles wide in places.

On the western banks of the Tallahatchie River, Frederic's levee held the center of the limelight and most of the convicts were concentrated there.

Sandbags Used on Boils.

Boils developed along the Glendora levee line, but workers kept down danger spots with sandbags.

The pressure against Tallahatchie River levees at Asa and Stone is particularly menacing and growing in strength. Wilmer Kennedy, Batesville publisher, reported. Weak spots also have developed northeast of Mimms, Curtis Station and Carriere. Kennedy said he believed there would be additional breaks in that territory.

Attempts to dynamite Pattison bayou levee in the last three days were attributed to dwellers of that region who wish to divert floods into other streams.

When Washington Was Younger—No. 154

THIS one ought to bring back memories to some of the old-timers of Washington, for it has been many a day since a horse car traveled its plodding way across the Pennsylvania Avenue Bridge over Rock Creek.

However in the days when this photograph was taken, it was a case of using the horse car—or else. Rock Creek Valley was a fine place for children to play, and close observers will note a group of boys at the base of the left abutment of the bridge.

At the time the M Street Bridge had not been erected. Only a few houses and apartments may be seen in the background of this photograph, whereas today the territory immediately north of the bridge is well filled with modern structures.

FALL TO PAVEMENT FATAL TO VISITOR

H. R. Robertson, Cousin of Mrs. Barnett, Is to Be Buried Today.

Heber R. Robertson, 71 years old, a cousin of Mrs. George Barnett, of Washington, widow of Maj. George Barnett, war time commandant of the Marine Corps, died yesterday in Casualty Hospital from injuries received when he tripped and fell to the pavement while attempting to cross a street on December 19, a few days after coming here for a brief visit.

Mr. Robertson, according to the police report on the accident fell as he stepped from a curb on Eighth and K streets northwest. He was treated at Emergency Hospital, and later returned home. On December 20 he complained of a pain in his right shoulder and was taken to Casualty Hospital for examination. It was found he had suffered a fractured shoulder and severe contusions.

His condition grew worse and he died at 11:30 o'clock yesterday morning. Physicians expressed the belief that death was caused by shock because of the man's age.

Born in Richmond, Mr. Robertson was the son of the late Heber Richmond Robertson. Besides Mrs. Barnett he is survived by the widow, and a sister, Mrs. Edward P. Collins, of Morristown, N. J.

Funeral services and burial will be held today at Mathias Point, King George County, Va., where Mr. Robertson made his home.

BRITAIN MAPS STEPS ON INDIAN CAMPAIGN

May Call National Congress Illegal and Take Over Property of Rebels.

London, Jan. 3 (U.P.).—The British government in India will adopt the methods of the Indian Congress to combat the renewed war of civil disobedience, according to advices received in official quarters today.

Mere repression, with wholesale arrests, will not be sufficient to stem the tide of rebellion expected to sweep over India when the satyagraha (civil disobedience) goes into effect, most officials admit.

Plans of the native leaders are based on the assumption the British will be forced to yield when the boycott against the empire's goods has reached sufficient proportions to threaten ruin of industry and a breakdown of private finances.

May Be Declared Illegal.

It was indicated today the government will issue a comprehensive ordinance proclaiming the existence of the National Congress illegal, and include in it a provision refusing railway, telegraph and postal facilities to all Indian business firms supporting the satyagraha.

Further ordinances would make the property of rebels liable to confiscation, thus drying up the source of funds without which the satyagraha could not be accomplished successfully.

Ordinary measures, it is realized, will fail particularly because the congress intends to use thousands of women in the campaign, and prison facilities in India do not exist for taking care of the hordes of noncooperatives who will join in the nonviolent war.

Scoffed at Proposal.

While he was in London, Mahatma Gandhi scoffed at any proposal, other than repression, which the government might undertake.

Explaining he believed the government incapable of evolving any plans for combat other than the arrest of the participants, Gandhi said the government would fail because it was not endowed with "inner promptings."

If the government's present scheme is carried out, it means the adoption of at least some of the mahatma's so-called inner promptings for its own use.

Girl in Ohio Found Murdered in Yard

Police of 2 Counties Hunt for Slayer of Child at Neighbor's Home.

Defiance, Ohio, Jan. 3 (A.P.).—Every resource at the command of authorities of two counties tonight was bent toward solving the mysterious slaying of a 12-year-old girl, found shot to death late today at a neighbor's home, north of here in the country. The child, Kathleen Carver, was found dead by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bender when they returned home from a visit to Bryan.

The child's death is the second in Ohio in recent days and follows closely on the killing of 9-year-old Marian McLean, of Cincinnati, kidnaped and criminally assaulted. Last week a small girl was abducted and assaulted at Columbus, but allowed to go free.

Kathleen left her home early this afternoon, with permission of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Otis Carver, to visit the two children of the Benders. When the Bender family returned home from Bryan they found her huddled in the back yard, shot once through the body.

HOOVER WOULD BEAT WET, CANNON AVOWS

1900. He told of fighting in Virginia, and then nationally. He had been introduced by the Rev. Samuel Hill, as a "man who has fought, is fighting and will flight."

Commenting on enforcement, Bishop Cannon said that authorities in Washington told him yesterday it was better now than it had been at any time since the eighteenth amendment was enacted. He said that it has grown better steadily ever since the President's message accompanying the Wickersham report.

Asserting that "society" people are flaunting the law, the bishop said that "no man can have a bootlegger, can have liquor in his home (except that possessed before prohibition) without conniving with some criminal. Society people of this country, financially and socially prominent have linked themselves with criminal interests."

GANDHI SEIZED BY BRITISH AND NEW REVOLT IMPENDS

more warning him that he and the Indian Nationalist Congress would be held responsible for any revival of the "nonviolent" conflict.

"We are prepared to deal with the movement with all the resources at our command," was the grim injunction of Viceroy Willingdon, who was believed to have lost patience with the Mahatma's efforts to reopen the question of the emergency measures in Bengal and other disturbed provinces.

To cope with the critical situation that is bound to follow Gandhi's challenge, it was learned that a special ordinance of extraordinary stringency will be promulgated today declaring the Nationalist Congress an illegal organization.

One of the most severe provisions of the ordinance will make it a grave offense for anybody to contribute funds to the Congress. This is especially aimed at wealthy Bombay mill owners and merchants who heretofore have helped the Congress liberally with money.

Responsibility Assumed.

"Time alone will show whose position is justified. Meanwhile, I wish to assure the government that every endeavor will be made on the part of the Congress to carry on the struggle without malice and in a strictly nonviolent manner.

"It is hardly necessary to remind me that the Congress and I, as its humble representative, are responsible for all the consequences of our actions."

Referring to his request for an interview with the viceroy on the repressive odinances, he continued:

"It is not correct or fair to suggest that I ever advanced the claim that any policy of government should depend on my judgment. But I do submit that any popular and constitutional government would always welcome and sympathetically consider suggestions made by public bodies and their representatives, and assist them with all available information about their acts or ordinances of which public opinion may disapprove."

Gandhi Predicts Terror.

Although on the threshold of a long term of imprisonment or exile, Gandhi did not lose for a minute his amazing cheerfulness in his conversation with the Associated Press and he predicted a reign of terror would ensue.

He expects the government to repress his movement, this time with bullets, he said, not mere lathis (staves), "but bullets can not kill a nation's soul or thirst for freedom," he added. "We shall emerge from the fiery crucible of suffering with hearts and minds purified and spirits exalted. Thus we shall be more worthy of our rightful heritage of liberty."

"How long do you expect the struggle to last?" the correspondent asked.

"Oh, it may be months, it may be years, it may be decades—but what is mere measure of time to a people with 10,000 years behind them. In any event, we are prepared to sacrifice all. We shall forget families and friends, we shall sacrifice our property, we shall bear the utmost privations and greatest oppression, including lathi and machine gun.

Disdains Hatred of British.

"But we shall bear no hatred toward the British. My goal is friendship with all the world. Having flung aside the sword, there is nothing except the cup of love which I offer to those who oppose me. It's by offering that cup that I expect to draw them close to me. I can not think of permanent enmity between man and man."

Gandhi's last act before he was arrested was to send to the two Scotland Yard detectives who protected him in London solid gold British watches, bought in spite of the boycott on British products.

The gifts were purchased in Bombay by Gandhi's secretary one hour after the Nationalist congress levied the embargo on British goods. Questionsd as to his consistency, he said, "But I promised the detectives watches while the Delhi truce was still in force and I must stick to my word."

Calcutta, Jan. 3 (U.P.).—The executive committee of the Bengal Congress today decided to resume the satyagraha (civil disobedience warfare), and elected a war council of three members.

The council will name and classify all British goods which must be boycotted by faithful revolutionists, and determine which of the British laws must first be defied.

Surgeon Gains Fame Using Human Throat as Fishpond

Chicago, Jan. 3 (A.P.).—The Izaak Walton of medicine will receive the plaudits of his profession in Chicago this week.

He is Dr. Chevalier Jackson, noted laryngologist and a professor at Temple University, Philadelphia, and is, as was Walton of piscatorial fame, primarily an angler, but with the human body his pond.

Dr. Jackson will be honored here tomorrow and Tuesday. Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association, announced today, at meetings of his fellow specialists in throat diseases and allied surgical realms.

Dr. Jackson's work, as explained by Dr. Fishbein, has consisted mainly in inventing instruments for removing foreign objects from the human body.

With long, flexible grappling hooks dropped into the larynx he has extracted countless objects which persons, especially children, have swallowed inadvertantly. Lights, taken internally by the patients and ingeniously devised to illuminate the regions probed, make the "fishing" safe and more accurate.

Large and sharp-pointed objects dangerous and difficult to remove are cut and broken by knives dropped through the oral cavity and manipulated by the surgeon.

These instruments, and Dr. Jackson's technique in using them, said Dr. Fishbein, are employed by surgeons all over the world.

Rare Russian Silver Set Stolen in Chicago Home

Chicago, Jan 3 (A.P.).—Washington Porter 2d, one of Chicago's wealthiest bachelors, reported to police today that a set of rare Russian enameled silverware worth $10,000 had been stolen from his Lake Park avenue home.

Porter said it was taken between last August and December 26. He was in Egypt during most of the period. He said the set contained 100 pieces, was the only one of its kind in this country, and could not be replaced.

Invitations Issued by President Hoover and First Lady for Third State Dinner to Be Held January 14

PRESIDENT AND MRS. HOOVER have issued invitations for the third state dinner to be given on Thursday evening, January 14, in honor of the chiefs of mission of the Diplomatic Corps.

The Polish Ambassador, Tytus Filipowicz, entertained at luncheon yesterday at the embassy. Guests were: Senator and Mrs. William E. Borah, Mr. and Mrs. William Hard, the Councilor of the Embassy and Mme. Sokolowsky, and the press attache of the embassy, Mr. Edward Weintal.

The Ambassador of Chile, Senor Don Miguel Cruchaga Tocornal and his brother-in-law, Senor Don Jorge Matte-Gomez, former Minister of Foreign Affairs of Chile, were the guests in whose honor Baron and Baroness von Below entertained at dinner last evening in their home on Sixteenth street. The other guests were the new Chinese Ministr, Dr. W. W. Yen, former premier of China; the Charge d'Affaires of Cuba and Senora de Baron, and Mrs. Robert Whitney Imbrie.

The dinner was a reunion for a number of those present, because Senor Cruchaga and Dr. Yen were both close friends of Baron and Baroness von Below when they represented their respective countries as minister in Berlin before the war, and during it until China joined the allies.

The Minister of the Netherlands and Mme. van Royen have issued invitations for a dinner on Monday evening, February 1, in the legation.

Mrs. William N. Doak, wife of the Secretary of Labor, will be at home Wednesday afternoon in the presidential suite at the Willard Hotel.

Baltimore Bachelors' Cotillon Is Tonight.

The second and last of the two Bachelors' Cotillons for this season in Baltimore will be given this evening at the Lyric and, while not as important as the first one, the majority of the debutantes will be there with a large number of young men home from college for the holidays and many out-of-town guests. This institution, which has been more discussed this season than any other since its organization, is still the stronghold of conservatism in an ultrademocratic age and still maintains certain standards which are fast falling into desuetude.

It savors something of going to court in England, for instance, no man being expected without a tail coat and white kid gloves; no girl without a chaperon, and everyone on their best behavior and mirabile dictu no cigarettes—the only place in Baltimore where they are interdicted except church.

Mrs. Henry and Miss Mary Henry, wife and daughter of the chief of cavalry, Maj. Gen. Guy V. Henry, left yesterday for San Antonio, Tex. They will return here at the end of this month.

Mrs. Russell-Bennett entertained at a buffet supper last evening in her home on Massachusetts avenue, when her guests were the Nicaraguan Minister and Senora de Sacasa, the First Secretary of the Chilean Embassy, Senor Don Oscar Blanco Viel; Mr. and Mrs. Effingham Townsend, Maj. and Mrs. Albert Meyer, Col. and Mrs. Edward Schulz, Maj. and Mrs. Covell, Commander Warren Child, Commander and Mrs. Timothy Keleher, Miss Kitty Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Woodson.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Bradley have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Suzanne Bradley, to Mr. William F. R. Griffith, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William F. R. Griffith, of Washington.

Miss Peggy Barker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Morville Barker, of 2827 Twenty-ninth street, left last night for Evanston, Ill., to resume her studies at Northwestern University.

Mrs. John McClure Wiley, widow of a prominent representative in Congress from Buffalo, has returned to her apartment at the Altamont from a visit to relatives in her girlhood home, Indianapolis. Mrs. Wiley returned a few months ago from Warsaw, Poland, where she spent a year with her son, Mr. John Cooper Wiley, counselor of the American Embassy there. Mr. Wiley is spending some time this winter in Berlin, where he is doing temporary duty at the American Embassy.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Conway, of New York and Baltimore, have been spending the holidays with their cousin, Miss Dick Root, at the Schuyler Arms. Mrs. Conway is the niece of the late Col. Richard Root and the late Samuel F. Miller, Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Hamilton McCormick-Goodhart entertained at the dinner dance at the Shoreham Saturday night for their debutante daughter, Miss Patience McCormick-Goodhart, and their house guests, Miss Cecil Dulin, of Danville, Ky.; Mr. Louis McAdams and Miss Helen Bryant, of Richmond, Va; Miss Eleanor McCormick and Miss Helen McCormick, of Chicago; Miss Polly Knowles, of New York; Mr. Robert Hundley, of Danville, Ky.; Mr. Frederick Nolting, of Richmond; Mr William Coddington and Mr. Bud Pollock, of New York; Mr. Leroy Pemberton, of Philadelphia; Mr. Louis Starr, of Bernardsville, N. The All States Officers Society will hold the regular monthly business meeting at the Willard Hotel this evening at 8 o'clock. Committees in charge of features of the George Washington Bicentennial Ball to be held on February 22 will make reports.

This ball, in which the State Societies of the District of Columbia will have part, will be one of the features of the opening of the bicentennial celebration in Washington. Many of the State societies are already cooperating in the arrangements.

Features of the ball will be the chief matters of discussion at the meeting this evening. All officers of State societies are invited to attend and participate in the completion of plans for what promises to be the most popular attraction on the opening night of this Nationwide celebratoin. It is hoped that each of the State societies will be represented.

Invitations will be issued this week for the panhellenic luncheon to be held January 23 at the Mayflower Hotel. Miss E. ## 3 JAPANESE SOLDIERS BEAT AMERICAN CONSUL IN MUKDEN

(Associated Press.)

American officials last night were confronted by a new ramification of the Manchurian difficulties following the attack by three Japanese soldiers upon Consul Culver B. Chamberlain.

Formulation of the Nation's official attitude toward the affair awaited direct reports to the State Department.

Until these are received, the administration, which for months has watched uneasily the march of Japanese troops through Manchuria, withheld comment.

Mr. Chamberlain is one of the outstanding experts of the foreign service in the Chinese language, and was en route to Harbin to take up his duties as consul there after a visit to Washington.

In China 11 Years.

The assignment was made because of Mr. Chamberlain's fluency in Chinese, an attainment which apparently contributed to the attack. His entire service with the State Department over eleven years has been spent in China, where he first went as a language student in August, 1920. He served in American consulates since then at Shanghai, Swatow, Yunnanfu, Tientsin and twice at Canton.

Several months ago he was granted leave of absence and returned to America from his second tour of duty at Canton.

The results of an investigation which Japanese Consul Morishima promised the American Consul General at Mukden, Myrl S. Myers, he would make will probably form the basis of the report of the State Department, along with Chamberlain's version of the affair.

Mr. Myers described it as an "entirely unprovoked assault."

Speculation Over Action.

There was only speculation in official circles here last night over a possible course of action by the American Government in the event it is determined the attack was unjustified.

The last major incident involving an attack on a United States consul occurred in India several years ago. Maj. Robert Imbrie was killed by a mob in Persia during some religious festivities.

The American Government demanded and collected $60,000 as reparations and also the cost of sending a cruiser to Persia to bring Imbrie's body back. Persia also formally apologized.

Tokyo, Jan. 3 (A.P.).—A Rengo dispatch from Harbin today said at least twelve "white" Russians were killed in street fighting there that followed the beating to death of a Russian boy by a Chinese shopkeeper.

The boy was caught stealing a cake from a Chinese sweet shop, the dispatch said. Police reported the shopkeeper beat him to death in Kitaiskya street, Harbin's principal thoroughfare in the Russian section.

Shop Is Attacked.

The boy's parents, infuriated, were reinforced by other Russians, the dispatch said, and attacked the shop, breaking windows, doors and display stands in an attempt to reach the shopkeeper.

Chinese police arrested several of the rioters and took them to the police station, which was attacked by a growing crowd of Russians. The police then fired on the crowd, killing at least a dozen and wounding many, before the assailants were dispersed.

The American, British and Japanese consuls hurriedly met to consider the situation, the dispatch said, and requested Gen. Ting Chao, in command there, to make every effort to maintain peace and order.

Police reserves patrolled the streets of the Russian quarter afterward while feeling was reported running high.

Hongkong, China, Jan. 3 (A.P.).—The Canton government was dissolved today in accordance with its peace agreement with the Nanking authorities.

Committees were formed to administer the provinces of Kwangtung and Kwangsi under the Nanking government.

Hu Han-min, former chief of the Chinese Nationalists, practically controls the executive committee and Cantonese participation in the Nanking government still was doubtful.

U. S. College in China Loses Building by Fire

Shanghai, Monday, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Fire of undetermined origin destroyed one building of Trinity College, maintained by the American Methodist Missionary Society, here early today.

The blaze was suspected to be of incendiary origin in view of Chinese political agitation against the college which had been going on for a long period. The college lost a building in a similar blaze in 1928, the origin of which was never determined.

Indoor—Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

START STEVIA IN LATE JANUARY.

WHEN your stevia has about finished flowering it is time to start some more for next season. If you have been successful with this fragrant little blossom this year, of course you will want more next year.

Stevia is perhaps the only fragrant flower that is absolutely sure to be in bloom for Christmas, with the exception of the paper-white narcissus.

Just as soon as your stevia has finished flowering, take off cuttings and grow them, transplanting them into larger pots as the occasion demands until they are growing in 6-inch sizes.

In April, or when all danger from frost is past, plunge the pots out of doors in ashes. While in this location, it will be necessary to turn the pots each day to prevent the roots, which are likely to protrude through the opening in the bottom of the pots, from rooting through into the ground.

In the fall, or when the cold weather is approaching and the nights are becoming frosty, lift the pots and store them in any light, cool place. During the summer and fall keep pinching the plants back, to induce them to become bushy. If left to follow its own devices, stevia is sure to make a straggly, leggy growth.

From the light, cool place where you have stored them when first bringing them under cover, you may take them a few at a time into your living room. By following this procedure, there is no reason why you should not have blooming stevia from the first day of November until the last day of January.

Stevia costs little and is so fragrant that it is a pity more people do not grow it. All it asks is a warm, sunny, well-ventilated place and a daily drink of water. Having no insect enemies and being practically immune to disease, it is an admirable plant for house culture. It likes a rather rich soil.

WOMAN LEADS HUNT TO DEAD ARMY MAN

Says He Appeared Insane and Struck Her in Auto; Shot Causes Death.

Gilroy, Calif., Jan. 3 (A.P.).—The body of Lieut. William J. French, U. S. A, on leave from Fort Devon, Mass, was found near his automobile in a field 4 miles south of here today with a bullet wound in the head. A pistol, from which the shot was fired, was on the running board of the automobile.

Mrs. Gertrude McEnroe, who said her home was at Butte, Mont., directed officers to the scene. She told authorities she left San Francisco with Lieut. French at 5 a. m., to drive to Los Angeles, and that apparently he had become insane and sought to take her life and his own.

Says Officer Struck Her.

Mrs. McEnroe, who said she had been acquainted with the Army officer for several years, said she was struck a severe blow on the head. Fearful the officer was demented, she said, she suggested they stop at San Jose. Lieut. French drove around San Jose and continued on through Gilroy, she said. Meanwhile, she clung to his arm, she explained, to ward off further attack.

Four miles south of Gilroy, she said, Lieut. French headed his car off the road and directly into an oak tree, caromed off, knocked down a fence and hurtled 80 yards into a field.

She ran to the highway, where she stopped a truck and was taken to Gilroy. Directed by Mrs. McEnroe, the officers found Lieut. French's body.

Wife Died 2 Years Ago.

Mrs. McEnroe said Lieut. French's wife died two years ago, and that at his invitaiton she had come to San Francisco from Kansas City to visit him.

Suffering concussion of the brain from a blow on the head, she is confined under the care of a physician at a Gilroy hotel.

She recalled the letter inviting her to San Francisco was dated May 6, when it should have been dated December 6, and that in addressing her, Lieut. French referred to her as "Elizabeth" McEnroe, using his dead wife's first name. These circumstances led her to believe the officer might have been suffering some mental disorder.

Family of Three Victims of Icepick

Two Men Held After Trio Is Sent to Hospital With Wounds.

Three members of a family—father, mother and son—are in Emergency Hospital with severe cuts on hands and body, suffered, police say, during an altercation last night in a house at 922 New York avenue northwest.

The victims are L. E. Platt, 58, stab wound in the chest; his wife, Grace, 48, lacerated hand, and their son, William, 28, stab wound in the back and cut hand. The father is in a serious condition.

According to police, the trio was injured in an alleged fight which followed an argument between the elder Platt and three other men. The wounds, it was said, were inflicted with an ice pick.

Two men, who gave their names as Robert Brown, 28, of 801 Twelfth street northwest, and Jamie Jordon, 24, of 828 Twelfth street northwest, were arrested by police of the First Precinct and held for investigation.

Rosenwald's Condition Is Reported Improved

Chicago, Jan. 3 (A.P.).—A slight improvement in the condition of Julius Rosenwald was reported late today by Dr. Herbert Pollack, his physician. Mr. Rosenwald spent a comfortable day, Dr. Pollack added.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

ANY ONE happening into the closing sequences of "Cimarron" would hardly have suspected that the little fellow impersonating Abraham Levy, the Christ-like Jew pack - peddler, grown elderly and opulent, had lived out two years over a quarter - century.

GEO. E. STONE.

Nor would the casual picture-goer have been apt to associate youth with the harassed character of Earl Williams, the "Red" condemned to be hanged by the neck until dead, in "The Front Page," yet the part was played by a young actor then not yet 28.

Having appeared previously in screen parts that did not belie his youthful years—flip tough-guy roles, gangsters, gutter rats and the like—these excursions into the field of character acting and the assumption of years far beyond the number that had actually passed over his head impressed many astute observers as a notable achievement in the sheer art of the mummer.

This column voiced some such notion when the skill of the portrayals to which reference has been made, and numerous others of no less merit, seemed to stamp the actor responsible for them as a mime whose real capabilities had never been realized by the producers, let alone availed of in their pictures.

Now that George E. Stone is present in the flesh in Washington, appearing in person this week at the Fox, and I have been privileged to enjoy not one, but two, long visits with him, the wonder has largely ceased that this young player was able to effect the transition almost over night from impersonations of no great significance, however adequate, to character studies of the highest degree of worth and authentic artistry.

George Stone may be only 28 years old at the present time—he was born in 1903—but crowded into those 28 years are the adventure, the vicissitudes and the emotional experience of a lifetime. And a very long lifetime, at that. His has been a life largely of buffetings, sacrifices, high hopes gone glimmering and steadfast devotion to the self-imposed duty of standing between those dependent upon him and the pinch of circumstances that were hard for them long before the period of the present depression. It all reads like the story of an Alger hero.

IT is necessary, to get some perspective on the whole picture of an unusual career, to go back some 15 or 20 years to the city of Lodz, or Lodze, which is in Poland slightly southwest of Warsaw toward the German border. George Stone's father, and I have no idea whatever that the name was Stone, was a prosperous manufacturer with five fine little children—four daughters and a son. With the coming of the bitter passions engendered by the scourge of war he was forced to flee the country to escape the terrors of a pogrom leveled at the members of his race who had attained some measure of affluence. Spirited out of the country by helpful friends, he in time reached America and sent back funds for his family to come and join him.

Three times they were turned back at Ellis Island as a result of an eye affection resulting from their hardships at home. After the second voyage to America, the mother and youngest daughter were stricken with pneumonia and died within a few hours of each other. George and his three remaining sisters, with deep-seated religious convictions instilled into their beings by a long line of cantors and rabbis, remained on the other side for the year of devotions contemplated by the tenets of their faith.

Eventually arriving once more at Ellis Island, this time in the steerage, George and his sisters were admitted and took up their residence in the home of their father in Paterson, N. J. The new domestic arrangement proved to be something less than ideal, since their father had married again and his wife, herself a widow, had three children of her own, who were accorded all the advantages while George and his sisters were permitted to perform all the drudgery. The handicaps of language, customs and step-motherly scorn were a pretty stiff burden. However, it is to these circumstances that George E. Stone's successful career is to be directly traced.

He began by selling papers on a Paterson street corner with Bert Wheeler, of the present popular stage and screen team of Wheeler and Woolsey. Alice White, recently here in person at the Earle, was another kid destined for greater fame who lived in the same neighborhood.

In course of time, George managed to work up a paper route that he was able to sell for something like $600 in cash, because it was worth probably twice that! This money he gave to his sisters and himself slipped quietly away from the paternal roof, a youngster in short pants, speaking English with an accent so thick you could pare it with a potato peeler, to lose himself in New York and seek a fortune.

THAT fortune didn't pile up any too rapidly. His first job was with a manufacturing company of meager resources that paid him $4 a week. This he abandoned to assume the duty of a page boy in the Lambs Club, the famous organization of actors on Forty-fourth street in New York, at $40 a month and board. With this windfall he almost concluded that he had arrived.

It was from this association that he secured his first movie job—one day as an extra, procured for him by William Farnum, who at that time was at the peak of his popularity on the screen. This looked pretty soft, so George quit the Lambs Club to be an actor himself. Incidentally, he never got another fling before a camera until "Seventh Heaven," years later, but he did get going after a fashion as a dancer, staging floor shows, doing bits in productions, staging acts and otherwise fighting a tough game, spurred on by an insatiable ambition and fortified by a clean mind, clean habits and the good judgment to choose helpful associates.

It is to this last quality of mind and heart that George attributes his present education—and he has an education, the result of careful reading, close observation and the serious bent inherited from that long line of devout religionists.

And there is no trace of accent in his speech. His English is pure, perfectly pronounced and more carefully chosen than that of the average native-born American.

And as far as being a gangster is concerned, that seems as fantastic, after you have met and talked with him—soft-voiced and mild-mannered as he is—as it did in the case of Jim Cagney, another swell fellow whose acting would give you a totally erroneous impression of his real self.

SINCE George is relating how he contrived to get tests for the cinema character roles he has played with such distinction, from the stage of the Fox at every performance, that recital will be omitted from this brief resume of his character and career.

Something of his punctilious care in making each successive character on the screen seem to him the biggest and best thing he has ever attempted may clarify the method of his rapid rise. Nothing is too small to engage the most earnest effort of which George E. Stone is capable.

The role of Levy in "Cimarron" again perhaps is most typical of this passion for thoroughness. His first tests for the part suited neither him nor the producers. As a matter of fact, he and Wesley Ruggles, the director, were the only ones with any confidence whatever that so young a chap, with nothing of the sort ever to his credit before, could by any possibility encompass the fullness of character that Edna Ferber had written into her symbol of persecution and the steadfast faith of the Jew. There was a considerable battle over the single point of whether the part should be played straight or in the dialect of the Hebraic comics familiar to burlesque. George finally persuaded his superiors that all Jews do not talk like that. It remained then for him to show them how they did talk. How well he succeeded is history.

But what I started out to say was that in the matter of making up for the part, George evolved a color combination of skin, hair and eyes that resulted in absolute realism and permitted him to appear old without any trace of makeup being discernible to the spectator. It is a secret that he still nurtures.

For the old-age sequences of this epic picture, four hours were required to get the makeup on as it should be. George virtually lived on the set. But the results of his effort caused him no longer to be looked upon as purely a "type" actor and opened before him a dazzling new field of activity.

George E. Stone is only 28, but, as I have said, he has already lived a lifetime in experience and travail. And out of it he has come a well-balanced, unaffected and likable chap whose viewpoint and accomplishment any ambitious youngster might well be proud to emulate.

I'm for him!

LOVE LED TO ARREST OF KIDNAP SUSPECTS

Woman Victim Turned Down Affections of "Abductor" and Informed Police.

Chicago, Jan. 3 (A.P.).—The unrequited love of a confessed kidnaper for a woman victim was revealed today as the factor which brought about the breaking up of what authorities called "one of the most vicious extortion gangs in history."

The woman is Mrs. Max Gecht, blonde and pretty, whose husband, a physician, said he paid $2,000 ransom to the gang. The alleged kidnaper who became enamored of her was Gus Sanger, owner of a bungalow in suburban Palos Park, where the band made its headquarters.

Mrs. Gecht said she was held hostage in the bungalow for several days after her husband had been released last December 12 to obtain the ransom. After she was freed, Sanger sent her some liquor as a gift and made an appointment to meet her on a street corner.

She informed authorities and when Sanger kept the appointment he was seized by a score of deputies disguised as street repair workers. Information obtained from him led to apprehension of the other alleged kidnapers.

Attorney Among Suspects.

One of them is Attorney Ward Swalwell, 32, a former assistant State's attorney, who allegedly served as a "go-between" in collecting ransom. Authorities said he worked under the direction of John Pingeree, 43.

Others arrested are William Thomas, 60; Al Russell, 32, and Eddie Finen, 28, said by Investigator Pat Roche, of the State's attorney's office, to have been identified by several kidnaping victims. Also in custody are Sanger's wife, Louise; Oscar Martin, and Gus Wyckoff.

Roche said Sanger has confessed, implicating the others. Pingeree has been identified, authorities said, as the man who tortured Jim King, South Side roadhouse proprietor, until he paid $7,500. King said his feet were burned with hot irons when he said he could not obtain the money.

Victims of Gang.

Other victims terrorized or tortured into paying ransom to the gang, Roche said, are James "Fuzzy" Pearce, a gambler of Rockford, Ill., who paid $1,200; Leo Gans, Chicago druggist, $1,000; William Gibbons, gambler, $5,000; James Hackett, gambler, about $150,000, and Fred Blumer, a brewer of Monroe, Wis., an unknown amount.

Roche praised Mrs. Gecht as having unusual courage in aiding authorities to capture the alleged abductors. Except for her pretended friendliness to Sanger and her bravery in going to meet him, Roche said, the gang might still be operating.

There are other members of the gang, one of them a prominent Chicago attorney, Roche said, who may be arrested within a few days.

Witnesses were being rounded up today to make formal identification, and the State's attorney was preparing to go before the grand jury to ask indictments. The death penalty, provided under Illinois laws, will be sought for each of the alleged kidnapers, it was announced.

Martial Law Test Case In Texas Oil Field Due

Houston, Tex., Jan. 3 (A.P.).—A suit to test the validity of the martial law regulation of the vast east Texas oil field is scheduled to begin here tomorrow before a three-judge Federal court.

The decision will determine future control of the field, and likewise will set legal precedent as to the extent of a governor's discretionary power in declaring and enforcing martial law in any area.

Malone Will Head U. S. Dress Trade

Lawyer Denies, However, That He Is to Be Industry's Czar.

New York, Jan. 3 (A.P.).—Dudley Field Malone, international lawyer, has been appointed counsel and governing director of the Association of Dress Manufacturers, Inc.

Louis Grabbe, president, in announcing the appointment, today said Mr. Malone would "immediately evolve plans for an intensive campaign looking toward the stabilization of the industry in all its elements and factors."

Malone disclaimed that his position would make him "the czar of the dress industry or of any factor in it." "Czars," he said, "long since outlived their usefulness, and their psychology has no part of present day thinking." The dress industry, he said, employs throughout the country 100,000 persons and does an annual business of $1,250,000,000.

HONOLULU ATTACK STARTS VICE DRIVE

Augmented Police Forces Hunt for Companion of Matron's Assailant.

Honolulu, Jan. 3 (A.P.).—With Lui Kaikapu, escaped prisoner who, police assert, admitted assaulting and robbing a young matron, safely returned to prison, Honolulu and territorial police under military supervision today started a city-wide campaign to clean up vice conditions.

Maj. Gordon C. Ross, of the National Guard, has been placed in charge of policing the island by Gov. Lawrence Judd. He deputized selected members of the American Legion to supplement the territorial polic and local forces.

Navy shore patrols also were greatly augmented. The object of their immediate search was Daniel Lyman, who escaped from the territorial prison with Kaikapu.

Meanwhile, Kaikapu's case was being considered by the prison board, which will decide what punishment should be given him. When he escaped on a previous occasion he was flogged.

Although City Attorney James F. Gilliland was out of the city and no definite word was obtainable, authorities expressed belief Kaikapu's confession that he attacked Mrs. James M. Odowda, school teacher, yesterday and then robbed her home, would be taken before the grand jury within a few days for action.

In a hospital today, Mrs. Odowda was recovering from shock. Her body was covered with bruises, but the cut over her eye was fast healing.

The hunt for Lyman, who, authorities say, is desperate and a convicted murderer, attained a wide range, although it was believed he was still hiding within the city. Police search was intensified in the Kapahului section of Honolulu, where a stolen automobile, believed to have been used by Lyman and Kaikapu in escaping, was found.

NAVAL CRAFT LEAVE FOR GUN PRACTICE

Will Assemble at Base in Cuba for Exercises Last Half of Month.

(Associated Press.)

The Navy began moving yesterday for the first of its 1932 gunnery exercises and war games.

The slower ships of the scouting force got away from Atlantic ports for Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, to be followed during next week by other units.

Half a hundred surface units and as many air units of the scouting force, under Vice Admiral Arthur L. Willard, will assemble at the Cuban base for gunnery practice the latter half of this month. They will leave about February 1 for the West Coast to join the rest of the fleet for war games.

The first vessels to move South were Train Squadron 1, commanded by Rear Admiral A. W. Marshall, and ships attached to aircraft, scouting force, commanded by Capt. George W. Steele. Remaining units of the scouting force will sail next week. Five squadrons of planes will participate at the All-American air races exhibition in Miami, Thursday.

The Contocook, Virgeo, Robin and Bobolink, towing target rafts, got away from Norfolk yesterday and the Rail, with a raft, sailed from Charleston, S. C., expecting to arrive at Guantanamo next Sunday. The aircraft carriers Wright and Langley departed from Hampton Roads.

Rear Admiral Marshall, commander of Train Squadron 1, will sail from Hampton Roads Thursday aboard the Antares and on the same day the plane squadrons attached to the Wright will fly from Hampton Roads to Miami via Jacksonville, going to Guantanamo after the air races exhibition.

Vice Admiral William H. Stradley, aboard his flagship Chicago, commanding cruisers, will sail from Hampton Roads next Saturday and Rear Admiral William J. Leahy, commander of destroyers, will sail from Charleston the same day.

Firm Moral Tone Urged for Britain

Archbishop of Canterbury Points Way of Escaping World Depression.

London, Jan. 3 (U.P.).—The Archbishop of Canterbury today proclaimed to the British people the need for stiffening the moral fiber of the nation and returning to the laws of Christianity if they are to recover from the moral and economic depression sweeping over the world.

As a climax to a national day of prayer, the archbishop's address was broadcast from Canterbury Cathedral over a nation-wide network. His grace's opening pronouncement was gloomy and foreboding.

"The new year dawns in darkness," he began. "The clouds darkening our life cover the whole earth.

"Only united action, which thus far has not been achieved, can lift them. Yet, while statesmen and economists discuss and confer, the relentless force of facts may at any moment precipitate a disaster in one country which will spread its blight over all others."

Schedule Change R. F. & P. R. R.—Beginning Jan. 5, Richmond local train leaving 4:05 a. m. and arriving 9:20 p. m. week-days will be discontinued north of Fredericksburg.

MURDERERS OF SIX POLICE ARE HUNTED IN KANSAS CITY

Many Women Trail Posses.

Hundreds of persons, many of them women carrying infants, followed the posses' movements closely. They boldly advanced over the scoured territory behind the posses, unheeding danger of an attack for a possible opportunity of witnessing gunplay. Occasionally a posseman fired into a hay stack or corn shock, or poked into barns and outbuildings.

At least three persons besides Mrs. Page saw the fugitives in their mad race for freedom.

Oscar Young made no resistance when possemen visited his home and with his wife was placed in the old Greene County Jail. His mother, Mrs. Willie Young, owner of the bullet-raked farmhouse, also was held in the county jail.

The desperadoes' sisters and a brother-in-law, Vinita Young, about 21, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Conley, 24-year-old mother of a baby girl, were lodged at police headquarters.

Heavy Guards at Prisons.

Heavy guards were thrown about both prisons. Police headquarters was thronged. Groups milled on the pavement outside the entrances as they have done ever since the killings.

The girls were taken into custody while trying yesterday to sell in Springfield a motor car stolen in Houston, Tex. Conley, an unemployed printer, formerly of Houston, was taken into custody later.

Police said the mother of the two girls, who was in Springfield, was told of the arrest of her daughters, and thereupon telephoned her farmhouse, resulting in preparations there which resulted fatally for the six officers.

Harry Young has been sought for the murder two years ago of Mark Noe, town marshal of Republic, Mo. Harry and Jennings Young are former convicts.

After the girls were arrested they said Harry and Jennings Young had driven to their mother's home from Houston, Tex.

Police said they had learned Mrs. Young, the mother, then telephoned her home, advising the recipient of the call, "Lorena (Mrs. Conley) and Vinita have been arrested by the police. You'd better be prepared."

Sheriff Marcell Hendrix, one of the slain officers, was notified by an unidentified source of the situation. He hurriedly assembled nine other officers for the drive on the farmhouse that proved fatal in a terrifying 30-minute siege.

The sisters said Oscar Young a farm renter whose place adjoins that of the slain sheriff, had visited the mother's home Saturday afternoon before they came to Springfield with the stolen car.

This led officers at first to believe Oscar was one of those who sprayed bullets upon the raiding officers.

Oscar maintained after his capture that he had gone to his mother's place "to get two mares," found no one in sight except the sisters before they departed for town and returned to his farm about five miles away. He said he and his wife spent Saturday night with her parents on a neighboring farm. Oscar Young has no police record here.

Jumpy Vigil at Death Farm.

Harry Young served a sentence in the Missouri Penitentiary for a filling station holdup and Jennings recently completed a term at the Leavenworth Federal Prison for interstate shipment of stolen automobiles.

Through last night a vigil was kept at the battle-scarred, two-story frame farmhouse that had housed the Young family. A shot rang out in the dark once from the gun of an overanxious young member of the National Guard, summoned to action by Gov. Caulfield. The stir that precipitated the terrifying gunshot was the rustling a small animal in the cornhusks strewn on the stubblefield through which the fugitives fled.

Tensity prevailed as the hardy folk of the lower Ozark slopes spoke of a cave that connected the house with the outbuildings, or permitted egress through a distant orchard.

Guards huddled more closely about a huge open fire and looked gladly upon a haystack burning a few rods away, set afire by an angry citizen. Bedding burned nearby which had been thrown from the farmhouse after futile efforts to fire the building.

Cash Circulation Gain Seen Under Bonus Bill

(Associated Press.)

Vice Chairman Ray, of the Veterans of Foreign Wars national legislative committee, yesterday estimated that full payment of the soldiers' bonus certificates would increase the circulation of money by $18 per capita in this country. In a statement supporting the bill of Representative Patman (Democrat), Texas, calling for full payment, Ray said his organization would renew their efforts to obtain its enactment.

"A poll recently made indicates that many congressmen previously neutral or opposed are now committing themselves to the support of the bill," he said.

Vetoed Job Exchange Bill to Be Reoffered

(Associated Press.)

Senator Wagner will reintroduce this week the bill which was vetoed by President Hoover in the last Congress providing for a national system of employment exchanges. He will reoffer it in the same form as it passed Congress before—with a few minor changes.

The bill would authorize appropriations of $1,500,000 the first year and $3,000,000 for each of the next three years. States would be given 75 per cent of these funds, provided they matched their quotas, for the creation of the employment offices.

TO END THE DEPRESSION.

Congress reassembles today under conditions as distressing as those of war. The American people are in fact waging war against adversity. They need the help of the strong arm of the Government in order to mass their attack upon the depression. Every citizen in the United States is enlisted in this war, but Congress has not yet signified its intention to put the Government behind the citizens.

By patriotic action in common with the President, Congress can mobilize the forces that will end the depression and start the country toward prosperity. Every day's delay invites great risks and imposes heavy hardships upon the people.

This is not a Republican nor a Democratic nor even an American depression. It is a world-wide disaster. But so far as America is concerned it can be overcome by the united effort of Democrats and Republicans. It is their duty to forget their politics and remember their Americanism.

The best qualified man in the United States to formulate a program for consolidating the Government's forces in behalf of the people's war against depression is the President; not because the President happens to be Herbert Hoover, a Republican, but because the President of the United States, whoever he may be, has command of information from all sources, and is aided by the counsel of patriots of all parties, all sections, and all lines of industry.

The President has formulated a program—the only program that can conquer the depression. It provides for safeguarding the Treasury, the States, agriculture, railroads, banks, industries, homes and wages. The plan enables the United States Government to mobilize its resources for the welfare of every citizen. This plan is now before Congress. The people expect Congress to deal with it immediately.

A program covering such immense scope as that proposed by the President must include details which are subject to discussion, alteration and improvement. The principles embodied in the program can not be altered or omitted without crippling the Government war on adversity. No one has pointed out any flaw in the principles outlined by the President.

Apparently the House will await the Senate's action on the chief feature of the President's program—the reconstruction corporation. The House has already passed the bill to assist the Government in facilitating farm loans and preventing foreclosure of mortgages on farms. While the House is waiting on the Senate it could profitably fill in the time by enacting tax legislation; but the Democratic policy committee seems to have chosen to inject politics into the situation by thrusting forward an impracticable tariff bill which contemplates an international conference for the readjustment of tariffs. Before an international conference could afford relief, even assuming that it could agree upon a plan, tens of thousands of hard-pressed citizens would be sunk under their burdens. But experience shows that international agreement upon tariffs is impossible. Three such conferences have been held already, and every nation represented has clung to its own tariff while asking that all others should reduce their tariffs.

The depression in this country can not be swept away by international action. Time does not permit of experiments, and sad experience warns against them. America must save itself by its own effort.

It would be a waste of time for Congress to discuss war debts at this juncture. The nations owing the United States are trying to get together on the problem of German reparations. This is their problem—not America's. In any event the question of war debt payments will not arise for several months, during which interval Congress can and should mobilize the Nation's resources for the national emergency.

Is there statesmanship in the House and Senate, capable of leading the membership away from partisanship for the sake of the national welfare? If there is, now is the time to exercise it. Republicans should not criticize Democrats for examining the President's program and proposing amendments and alterations aimed at more effective legislation. Democrats should not propose amendments or alterations merely for political advantage. All legislators in this emergency should regard themselves as trustees of the American people, charged with the duty of organizing the powers of the Government for the sole purpose of putting an end to this depression. With the Government assisting, and not hindering them, 125,000,000 enterprising Americans will restore their own prosperity.

OBSTRUCTING RELIEF PLANS.

A tariff row in Congress threatens to interfere with the reconstruction program which has been offered by President Hoover as an antidote against economic derangement. Speaker Garner has announced his intention of giving a tariff bill the right-of-way over revenue legislation. Republican leaders of the House are determined to defend the Smoot-Hawley act against any assault. In the Senate, too, the proposed tariff measure will arouse bitter controversy, thus delaying if not defeating the constructive program that has been outlined for the country's economic relief.

Indications are that the Democratic tariff measure will contain no rate changes. Under any circumstances only minor changes would be proposed. While the country is suffering from unemployment and lack of buying power the Democrats are afraid to apply their antiprotection doctrine. The chief feature of the amendment that has been under consideration is reorganization of the Tariff Commission. The House Democrats want the commission to make its reports to Congress rather than to the President. Their plan would make changes in the existing tariff rates more difficult, since duties could be altered only while Congress is in session, and only as the result of political controversies.

The Democratic measure may also contain a gesture toward reduction of tariffs throughout the world for political effect. Democratic leaders feign belief in the fiction that measures which have been adopted to protect home markets in all parts of the world are a result of the American tariff. They wish to indorse the principle of world-wide reduction of duties, while retaining the benefits of the existing tariff. There is not a remote possibility of an international tariff agreement while the depression reaches its tentacles throughout the world. If such a conference were held it might result in raising the American tariff to afford this country protection equal to that enjoyed by foreign producers, who are selling from behind the barrier of depreciated currency as well as tariff walls.

In no sense can the proposed tariff bill be considered as a relief measure. Present indications are that it will amount to nothing more than a political stunt. Democratic leaders insist upon playing politics with the tariff, regardless of the urgency of rehabilitation measures.

One other reason why the tariff bill is being pushed ahead of revenue legislation is the widespread division of opinion among Democrats in the House on taxes. By emphasizing a strictly partisan issue, Speaker Garner hopes to smooth over the Democratic schism on taxation.

Nothing can be gained by a reopening of the tariff question in any form at this time. With conditions as they are the low-tariff doctrine of the Democratic party is the most vulnerable spot in its whole policy. If such an issue is used to obstruct the reconstruction program it may be expected to bring its sponsors to grief.

A SELF-RELIANT CITY.

Rochester, N. Y., is giving the country an example of what may be accomplished toward banishing depression by united efforts. Business and industrial leaders of that city outlined a program of activity that included virtually every citizen of Monroe County. A house-to-house campaign was conducted in which factories, householders and business men pledged themselves to spend more than $6,000,000 in purchases or work that ordinarily would not have been undertaken under existing circumstances.

The slogan was: "Put idle dollars to work." Factories were asked to make needed repairs or expand their facilities. Merchants agreed to stimulate business and hire extra help. Citizens pledged themselves to hire any help needed for repair work and other odd jobs, and to buy without the restraint of depression psychology. As a result the employment curve turned up sharply, construction was revived, and retail sales advanced beyond expectations.

The most notable feature of this experiment is the changed attitude which the campaign brought about. The people were asked to help themselves by joining in a community effort. Instead of moping under the impression that disaster was impending, they began to realize that conditions could be improved if each one did his part. As soon as the cooperative spirit was aroused the campaign workers surprised themselves. Pledges amounted to three times the figure the committee had set out to secure.

The spirit behind this movement is most commendable. Instead of pleading with the Federal Government for a dole or looking to the State for aid while holding its hands and sighing with despair, Rochester has taken effective means of rehabilitating itself. The city-wide drive inspired confidence because the people realized that they would all be pulling together. When that spirit of cooperation is once manifest there is no need to fear the outcome of community enterprise.

One deficiency in the mental attitude of the people is the tendency to look afar for the elements of recovery. Better times will not spring from Federal aid or foreign commerce alone, but from the local efforts of self-help and cooperation among the people themselves. Communities have come to depend too much upon outside sustenance. Uncle Sam can not legislate confidence into the people, no matter what action Congress may take. But each community can revive confidence in its own people; and the self-reliance of local groups will swell into a mighty determination to throw off this fit of fear that has paralyzed business.

LAST OF THE NATCHEZ.

The last war dance in the history of the Natchez Indians has been staged. The dance was not in the interest of bloodshed this time, but was performed for Victor Riste, anthropologist of the Carnegie Institution, who took a moving picture of the ceremony and recorded the sounds and words of the lost tongue. The ritual was executed by Wat Sam and Nancy Raven, the only two remaining members of the Natchez tribe, who alone today speak the Natchez language, and two other part Natchez Indians. Wat Sam and Nancy Raven considered the performance a great lark, and were hardly aware of the tragedy of their parts in playing the "last man" roles in recording the ritual of their tribe.

At one time the Natchez tribe numbered about 200,000, in villages along the lower Mississippi. Riste calls them "sophisticated Indians." Their customs were quite different from those of other aboriginals. They had a society of two castes, speaking different, though related languages. The "sun" people were the rulers and the "stinkards" the warriors. Their ceremonies were varied and colorful; they built temples and pyramids and on the biers of their dead heroes often sacrificed human beings.

In the late seventeenth century the Natchez began war on the French who had settled in Louisiana, the French having attacked their villages from time to time. It was a long and bloody struggle over a number of years. It finally ended with the French massacre of the Indian settlements and the capture and enslavement of their ruler. The few Natchez who were left escaped into the Creek, Cherokee and Chickasaw tribes and were gradually absorbed. Today Nancy Raven and Wat Sam are the purest survivors, though even they have some Cherokee blood.

Mr. Riste is not the first anthropologist to study Wat and his sister, as the Carnegie Institution for years has been endeavoring to record the language and manners of the Natchez through the pair. Riste took up the work where his predecessors left off. He recorded their folklore and stories phonetically, while his interpreter, a friend of Wat Sam, who understands but does not speak the language, explained the meaning of the words. Mr. Riste expected to finish his work during the summer months, but Wat refused to tell the winter stories until the proper season, when the frost had whitened the ground, sending back to their rest many spirits which prowl uneasily during the Indian summer. As Mr. Riste wanted the winter tales he remained and now has gathered a most interesting collection which will throw valuable light on the traditions and thought of this peculiar people.

Revised Democratic slogan: "Hee, haw! We're coming back—for more punishment!"

1932, "OVER THERE"

From the Boston Transcript.

"The problems now troubling European statesmen are almost completely European." (Associated Press. Washington, December 26, 1931.)

"Europe has a set of primary interests, which to us have none, or a very remote relation," &c. (George Washington, September 17, 1796.)

Unless and until European nations discard their tangled rivalries and antagonisms sufficiently to enable them to unite on a fiscal policy based on mutual confidence and thus commanding the confidence of Americans, it now appears probable that our Government will not take part in the proposed reparations conference or in any general conference on war debts. The moratorium is now an accomplished fact, but one of President Hoover's chief objectives when launching that unprecedented international palliative was to give Europe a chance to unite on a constructive program of action against the prevailing depression. The future was left "up to Europe," so to speak, and the United States was left uncommitted to any new future obligations, even in intent, save, of course, the perennial obligation of good will.

This was as it should be. No narrow isolation from mutual problems bequeathed by the late war, and no desire to shirk any duty of helpful cooperation animated our policy, as the moratorium itself so eloquently attested and attests. But caution demanded and still demands that no obviously futile or precarious step shall be taken, and unfortunately Europe is still a house divided against itself. America is not Europe's keeper and has no desire to dictate to her how to turn her various nations into a happy, harmonious family. With respect to her internal dissensions and incompatibilities we adhere to our traditional policy of "hands off," and without keeping our hands in our pockets we rather insist that the extended hand of our friendship shall be actively cooperative only to the extent that European countries shall realize their joint and several responsibilities through united and peaceful action. And we must be the sole judge of the soundness of that guaranty.

'Tis thus, then, that this country faces its mother continent as we approach 1932. Times have vastly changed since we entered upon our own national life, and were Washington to write a new Farewell Address today doubtless he would somewhat modify its phrasing. But the basic lines of his vision are still appropriate. It may be that some day, and perhaps soon, the war debts will have to be revised. The first move, however, should come from Europe and from a Europe that has first put its own financial house in order.

Vacation's Over!

POST HASTE.

"Truths would you teach, or save a sinking land?
All fear, none aid you, and few understand."

As Chinchow offered no resistance it was not bombed from the air. Japan is getting soft.

Congress is back to add its New Year resolutions to the 9,000 bills already introduced.

Democrats will hitch their nags this week before the simple Mayflower Inn to toast in cider and claim kinship with Jackson.

It is to be hoped that no one will be as indiscreet as Bishop Potter at a celebration 50 years ago when he said: "We have exchanged the Washingtonian dignity for the Jacksonian simplicity, which is in truth only another name for the Jacksonian vulgarity."

Senate insurgents are having a taste of third-party power. If their ground wire is working they can also learn what the public thinks of minority defeatist principles.

It is now announced that the League of Nations commission to investigate the Manchurian situation may get going in February—yes, of this year.

To start a '32 collection: As useless and wasteful as another "hunger march" in automobiles.

"Roosevelt men see wet move checked." And the wet men see Roosevelt checked.

You see signs about free atmosphere, but it took a publisher to launch a presidential boom for Jack Garner on the air.

In shouting for immediate and downward tariff changes, Democrats know they are just as safe as Filipino politicians who have a similar cry.

Rumor hath it that a denatured Raskob will attend the Democratic powwows here this week—no more insistence upon prohibition repeal in the platform. Party leaders should beware pressing the chairman too far; he might also refuse to accept repayment of that first trust.

You think the League of Nations is idle; without bloodshed it has just established an international standard for the vitamins.

Committee chairmen and floor leader alike have learned that when the Speaker speaks to them he is not arguing, but telling them.

Democrats in the House will brook no delay on tariff legislation. They are going to rush a measure through that calls for three years of fruitless negotiation.

There seems to be no excuse for not having a stronger stock market today, so there's no telling what it will do. PAUL HUDSON.

A MUSKRAT NUISANCE.

Muskrats imported from America into Europe are becoming a menace, and officials of several countries say they are powerless to stop the animals' depredations.

Five which were released near Prague, Czechoslovakia, 25 years ago, have resulted in a population of 100,000,000 spread over central Europe.

The army of rodents is invading Britain and is causing great damage to crops, according to the Baltimore Sun. In Scotland muskrats have become so numerous that officials say their eradication is impossible.

They have burrowed into the banks of the Allan River and the safety of the famous curling lock at Carse Breck is threatened.

One Who Wins All the Marbles Must Divide Again or Quit Playing

By ROBERT QUILLEN

H. G. WELLS attributes much of the world's present woe to the fact that newly invented machines are doing the work of men.

That is superficially true, but it doesn't get at the root of the matter.

The building of machines to replace men was not the work of a day. The world didn't go to bed without knowledge of machinery and awake next morning to find millions of workmen dispossessed of their jobs.

Machinery has transformed the world, but the transformation came slowly. Each new machine in turn drove thousands of jobless men into the streets, and thus for a time seemed a curse to labor; but increased production meant increased wealth and greater demand, so that in the end there were ten new jobs for every old one lost.

Electric lights and automobiles deprived many men of their jobs, but they developed new demands that gave employment to millions.

Labor-saving machines are a blessing, not an evil. They add to the world's wealth and thus make life easier and more abundant for all.

The fault is not in the machine, but in the way man has used them or permitted them to be used.

Machines make it easier for a few men to get great wealth. If a machine does the work of a thousand men, the owner of the machine has the income of a thousand men. And the thousand men whose work is done by the machine have no income at all.

That is the problem of the machine age—the problem that must be solved if this civilization is to survive.

Prosperity depends on consumption, for without it there will be no production. Men and machines can find work to do only so long as their product is consumed.

There is now no overproduction, but only underconsumption. The owner of the machine, though he has the income of a thousand men, can not consume as much as a thousand.

Demand must equal supply. That is, men must consume as much as machines can produce. And the man who can't consume in proportion to his income destroys the balance of the whole economic machine.

If one man has the income of a thousand, and buys supplies for only one, he not only makes the thousand unable to consume anything but in so doing halts production of everything the thousand might consume.

Capital suffers as well as labor, for it can make no profit if it isn't producing; and machines will ruin all alike unless a way is found to distribute wealth so that each man's buying power will match his ability to consume.

PRO AND CON

The Baker Boom.

Houston Post-Dispatch.

Those Ohio Democrats who have instituted a campaign to get the Ohio delegation to the Democratic National Convention in 1932 pledged to Newton D. Baker are not motivated primarily by a desire to "stop Roosevelt." While pledging Ohio to Baker may operate to lessen the chances of Roosevelt's nomination, the men launching the Baker boom are to be credited with being genuine Baker supporters.

The activity being shown at this time in behalf of Baker, in the face of his declaration that he is not and will not be a candidate for the nomination, and that he favors the nomination of Gov. White of Ohio, is significant. The extent of the movement in behalf of Baker by leaders in his home State means that Gov. White and Senator Bulkley practically have been eliminated as possibilities. There seems little doubt now that Baker will have his home State delegation.

Minneapolis Journal.

The Capper-Wheeler bill, to give 40,000,000 bushels of the Farm Board's hoard of surplus wheat to the Red Cross or some other designated organization for the feeding of the destitute, strikes a snag in the board's insistence that it be paid in cash for the grain. The Capper-Wheeler plan contemplates settlement for the wheat with a credit against the revolving fund of $500,000,000 which, in a manner of speaking, the Farm Board owes to the Treasury.

It is well understood that the Farm Board is without authority to give away its wheat, so long as it can find any market for it. But here is a market, and a market to which wheat growers themselves offer no objection. The fact that the wheat would be paid for with a credit against a standing obligation, instead of with cash, would not affect the deal's character as an actual sale.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Good Word for One Alien, After All—Starling Eats Worse Pests Than He Is Himself.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The starling has long been a nuisance in the City of Washington, but according to Albert Stoll, jr., these birds are an economic asset.

The following, which is very interesting, is what Mr. Stoll has to say about the starlings in America:

"The establishment of the European starling in the United States no longer remains uncertain. The birds are here and they're here to stay. It has taken the species 40 years to reach the Prairie States of the West from Central Park, New York City, where the first liberation took place. Today every State East of the Mississippi and the southern parts of bordering Canadian provinces have been adopted by the starlings as their new home. They are contented with food and cover conditions, and appear as numerous as our common black birds.

"Due to their habits of congregating in large flocks and creating noisy and filthy roosts, starlings have come into bad repute in many sections. The starling winter convention now being carried on near Jack Miner's bird sanctuary, near Kingsville, is a good illustration of this. The birds did not migrate South, as was expected, but have claimed the woods adjacent to the sanctuary as their winter home. Their presence in tens of thousands means the ultimate destruction of the tree growth if they remain much longer.

The question has been asked on many occasions as to the economic value of this new bird. After a study of over twenty years, Federal biologists report that the starling is economically the superior of the robin, catbird, red winged black bird, grackle, cowbird or English sparrow. Although the bird has certain tendencies for harm, such as eating cultivated fruits, disturbing other nesting birds, and its roosting habits, there appears to be no question that its influence in reasonable numbers is beneficial. It is one of our greatest injurious insect destroyers. R. S. L.

Mt. Rainier an Example of What American Communities Are Doing for Unemployed.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Last Saturday morning my heart was warmed by a Post news item in regard to unemployment welfare work just across the Maryland line, the gist of which is condensed in a double-column caption as follows:

"Mount Rainier Food Drive Brings Overflow Supply—Response to Welfare Association Appeal More Than Fills a Storeroom; 15 Families Are Given Help; Campaign to Be Renewed Soon."

Maybe you will think the assertion extreme, but in my opinion Mount Rainier's example of local self-help is a conclusive answer to those who insist that distress resulting from economic depressions should be met by Federal doles.

Taking advantage of the fact that we have hard times everywhere, the unwitting as well as the willful preachers of socialism are just now busy trying to bewilder the public with impressive billion-dollar as well as million-dollar aggregates. But I still believe that the American spirit of self-reliance is widespread, also.

I like to believe that in every part of the Union there are hundreds and thousands of Mount Rainiers which, in addition to big cities, counties and States, are amply able to take care of their own.

It was so in the past. Owing to the development of organized charity in the last few decades, it should be more so now. F. P. MOYER.

Europe's Heritage Makes for Strife—America Fortunate in Its Origins.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: As a political flashlight in the foggy field of international affairs American statesmen should keep it constantly in mind that the miseries of Europe are a heritage of feudalism and the government of kings. European problems are still involved in the psychology of racial misunderstandings and mercenary chauvinism.

The United States is fortunate in that the background of its history is free from records of sordid strife. We have heretofore found inspiration in the wintering of the "ragged Continentals" at Valley Forge and Washington crossing the Delaware as well as in the sturdy optimism of those who blazed the trails of a free people amid the privations and perils of the wilderness.

He is not a true American who greets the inconvenience of a mere transitory economic depression with what sounds very much like a whine of mendicancy. W. T. T.

WINTER.

Winter comes to field and glen,
And the brave youth of the spring
And the song of thrush and wren,
And the trees gay blossoming
Fade before the cruel blast
Into glories of the past.
All things have their winter time.
Toys lie broken with the years.
Eyes that danced with joys sublime
Soon or late are dimmed by tears.
Youth itself becomes at last
But a memory of the past.
It is well that spring should go,
And that summer blooms should fade;
Well that every joy we know
Must pass onward, undelayed.
For if pleasure could remain,
So could grief and loss and pain.
Not alone do splendors lie
Under winter's shroud of snow.
Every wind has driven by
Many a care and touch of woe.
Where the blasts of winter sweep,
By-gone disappointments sleep.

TWO NEW PARTNERS TO AID CULBERTSON

Wife to Play Tonight and in Last of 30 Rubbers Left in War With Lenz.

New York, Jan. 3 (A.P.).—Ely Culbertson will have two new partners this week in the final 30 rubbers of his contract bridge match with Sidney S. Lenz and partner, which began December 7.

Mrs. Culbertson will continue opposite him when play is resumed tomorrow night. Only two rubbers are left in her minimum quota of half the match, but she will play at least half a dozen more than 75. She intends to play the final rubbers at the concluding session Friday night.

Michael Gottlieb will be Culbertson's partner Tuesday night. There will be a hiatus in the competition Wednesday. On Thursday Culbertson will have Howard Schenken opposite him. Schenken will make the fifth partner Culbertson will have had. Lenz has had two—Oswald Jacoby and Commander Winfield Liggett, jr. The latter is finishing the match.

Culbertson's lead—20,220 points—is so great that even his opponents for some time have been admitting the impossibility of defeating him and they have been arguing that the match which was devised and proclaimed as a test of rival bidding systems has not been such a test. They have suggested various other things, such as a duplicate match. Culbertson naturally is accepting none of them. He believes that his own system has triumphed with all conditions favoring its opponents.

Two-fifths of the lead of Culbertson's side is due to penalties. Here are the figures for 120 rubbers:

| | Lenz | Culbertson | Excess |
|---|---|---|---|
| Vulnerable .... | 12,300 | 8,700 | 3,600 |
| Nonvulnerable . | 13,800 | 9,400 | 4,400 |
| Totals ..... | 26,100 | 18,100 | 8,000 |

Lenz has suffered the largest penalties of any of the seven players so far involved in the competition. Here are the individual figures for sets of 500 points or more:

Ted Lightner—One of 600.

Write or typewrite on one side of the paper only, and number succeeding sheets in proper order. The contest begins at once and all essays must be delivered to the Essay Editor at The Post by midnight of March 14, or post-marked not later than that date.

All essays will be acknowledged in the news columns of The Post as received.

Every contestant in The Post Washington Essay Contest should feel it a high honor to be able to share in this tribute to George Washington. It will be remembered that, when the one hundredth anniversary of George Washington's birth came in 1832, Daniel Webster, one of the great orators and statesmen of that time, spent months in preparation of what is known as the "Bunker Hill speech" in commemoration of that event. The speech has lived in history.

Coolidge Was Prize Winner.

Many famous men and women have participated in like contests. When former President Calvin Coolidge was a young law student, he entered an essay contest by the Sons of the Revolution for the best essay on the subject: "The Principles of the American Revolution." In order to give students of various ages an equal chance the contest has been divided into four groups:

WASHINGTON SOCIETY PUBLISHES BOOK.

A MEMORIAL book, celebrating the birth of George Washington and memorializing his death, will be published on February 22, 1932, by the Washington Society of Alexandria, an organization formed in January, 1800, by friends and neighbors of the general in his home town. Entitled "Washington, First in the Hearts of His Countrymen," the volume is issued in recognition of the celebration of the 200th anniversary of Washington's birth.

Included in the book are a number of orations delivered on February 22 of each year, by members of the society who had been personal friends of Washington. The first of these addresses was delivered in 1800 by Dr. Elisha Cullen Dick, one of the physicians attending Washington in his last illness, and the last of these was made by Francis Scott Key in 1814. It is believed that these speeches will furnish an excellent source of material for future biographers of the first President.

The book will be limited to 1,799 copies, this number representing the year in which George Washington died.

The home of George Washington at Mount Vernon, Va., is to be duplicated in a structure now being built at Mount Vernon, Skagit County, Wash. The building will be one of the features of the celebration of the 200th anniversary of the birth of George Washington.

WASHINGTON'S LOVE OF ANIMALS.

GEORGE WASHINGTON'S love of animals is brought out in interesting fashion in many of the entries in his diaries. The following, taken from his journal for his birthday in 1760, shows that he personally attended to an injured horse, although he was fatigued by a long journey and had to work in the night:

"Upon my return," wrote Washington, "found one of my best wagon horses (namely, Jolly), with his right foreleg mashed to pieces, which I suppose happened in the storm last night by means of a limb of a tree or something of that sort falling upon him. Did it up as well as I could this night."

WASHINGTON'S STEPSON DIES AT YORKTOWN.

WHILE his camp still rang with shouts of triumph over the surrender of Yorktown, a domestic affliction threw a shadow of sorrow over Gen. Washington's happiness, according to the Division of Information and Publication of the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission.

His stepson, John Parke Custis (to whom he had been a parent and protector, and to whom he was fondly attached), who had accompanied him to the camp at Cambridge and was among the first of his aids in the dawn of the Revolution, became sick while serving in the trenches before Yorktown.

Told that his disease (camp fever) would be mortal, the sufferer had one last lingering wish to be gratified, and he would die content. It was to behold the surrender of the sword of Lord Cornwallis. With the aid of two officers, who supported him on either side, he witnessed the glorious spectacle, and was then removed to Eltham, a distance of 30 miles from camp.

A message soon arrived from Dr. Craik, announcing that there was no longer hope, when Washington, attended by a single officer and a groom, left headquarters at midnight and rode with all speed for Eltham. The anxious watchers by the couch of the dying man were, in the gray of the twilight, aroused by the tramplings of a horse and, looking out, beheld the commander in chief alighting from a jaded charger in the courtyard.

"Is there no hope?" he asked Dr. Craik. The latter mournfully shook his head. The general retired to a room, where he gave vent to his grief, requesting to be let alone. In a little while the poor sufferer expired. Washington, tenderly embracing the bereaved wife and mother, observed to the weeping group, "From this moment I adopt his two youngest children as my own."

Building-Loan Shows $7,621 Rise in Assets

The Arlington-Fairfax Building Loan Association, according to a report made public yesterday by its secretary, D. R. Luttrell, shows an increase of $7,621.35 in assets over last year. The total for 1931 was $67,621.35, while that for 1930 was $60,000.

One of the outstanding features of the report, says Mr. Luttrell, is that the company lost not one cent in interest from loans for the year, totaling $281,050. The legal reserve fund amounts to $10,260.71, while the undivided profits of the association amount to $9,000.

Marylander Reported Poison Victim.

John P. Shaffiett, 55, of Takoma Park, Md., was taken to the Washington Sanatorium yesterday, where he was treated for the effects of a quantity of poison he is said to have taken at his home. His condition is not serious.

M'LEAN FIREHOUSE ENLARGING IS NEAR

Committees Named to Push Construction Giving Work to Needy Men.

The Volunteer Fire Department, of McLean, Va., is completing plans for an addition to its present engine house on the Chain Bridge road. President J. H. Beattie has appointed W. P. Davis, Joseph Sabacky, Marvin Poole, J. C. Storm and John H. Carper as a building committee to prepare the plans and specifications for the proposed structure. This committee will report at the next meeting of the department on the cost of materials. H. A. Storm, Lewis Magarity and John W. Preston have been appointed as a finance committee to propose ways and means of raising the necessary funds.

Tentative plans for the building provide for the addition of 30 feet in the rear of the present 50-foot building, which would make a hall 80 feet long, 40 feet wide in the rear and 27 feet wide in front, which would later be widened to correspond with the rear. The present kitchen would be made into a part of the engine room, making it 10 feet larger. A new kitchen will be built in the new addition together with a storage room for extra hose, carnival supplies and lumber for the stands.

The department plans to construct the foundations for the proposed addition immediately, and to complete the work as far as the ground floor before making an effort for further financing. The project will be started at this time to afford employment to men in the community who need work.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the department has announced that it will serve an oyster supper in the engine house January 16, to assist in the financing of the building.

The volunteer fire department at Vienna, Va., at its annual meeting, elected Leon L. Freeman president; F. G. King, vice president; G. Owens Berry, secretary; F. A. Wilcox, assistant secretary; Vernon Gowin, treasurer; Lloyd E. Wright, chief; W. E. Thompson, first assistant chief; F. M. Fritter, second assistant chief; Howard King, engineer; Charles Jones, electrician; Dr. Ford Swetnam, surgeon, and F. A. Wilcox, chaplain.

The board of directors of the department will consist of L. L. Freeman, Vernon Gowin, L. E. Wright, G. Owens Berry, F. G. King, Walter Thompson, F. M. Fritter, J. Lovell Jeffries, J. Lee Dale, Bert Phillips, F. H. Nelson and F. A. Wilcox. The treasurer reported that all obligations of the department for the last year had been paid and that a balance of $40.37 remained in the treasury.

The executive committee of the Parent-Teacher Association of Falls Church will meet this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of the treasurer, Mrs. C. A. Ransom, on Washington street, according to the announcement of Mrs. J. O. Belz, president.

ALEXANDRIA STARTS PRAYER WEEK TODAY

Union Services Begin at 8 o'Clock Each Night; Old Hotel Razed.

Week of prayer services will be observed in the churches of Alexandria, beginning today and continuing through Friday. These are union services arranged for National Prayer Week, which are to begin at 8 o'clock each evening. The program for the week follows:

Tonight, at the Second Presbyterian Church, conducted by the Rev. Percy Foster Hall, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

Wednesday night at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, conducted by the Rev. C. M. Compher, pastor of the Methodist Protestant Church.

Thursday night at Trinity Methdist Episcopal Church, conducted by the Rev. William B. McIlwaine, D. D., pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church.

Friday night, January 8, at Christ Episcopal Church.

The work of demolishing the building at the southwest corner of King and Peyton streets, recently acquired by the Washington branch of the Coca Cola Co., has been started. The actual work of erecting the building which will be used by that company as a distributing center for this area will be started within two weeks. Several of the old buildings on this site already have been razed. The building on the corner, known for many years as the Virginia Hotel, for colored persons, was property of Wash Jackson, colored. It was partly destroyed during the hurricane which struck Alexandria several years ago and damaged many buildings.

Approximately 110 persons, including the clerical and mechanical forces, will, it is announced, be employed by the Ford Motor Co. in its new plant to be erected at the foot of Franklin street. This plant will be used as a distributing plant for this vicinity, and is so situated as to be convenient for shipments by either rail or water.

The Government is installing automatic lights over the Washington & Old Dominion Railway grade crossing at the north end of Alexandria, where the railroad crosses the new Mount Vernon Boulevard. The lights will be ready for use with the opening of the boulevard in February.

Father Smith Talks Over Catholic Hour

Speaks on 'Christ Our God' in First of Series of Five Sermons.

The Very Rev. Ignatius Smith, noted Dominican preacher, delivered the first of his series of five sermons on the Washington Catholic Radio Hour yesterday. His subject was "Christ Our God."

"In the midst of international desolation and uncertainty it is consolatory to know that Jesus made divine authority so attractive, the divine will so clear and the divine companionship so approachable. Perhaps He has permitted us to lose confidence in the leadership of earth so that we may turn to Him for guidance," said Father Smith in his talk, delivered in the Church of the Immaculate Conception and broadcast over Station WOL yesterday afternoon.

The Rev. Francis J. Hurney, director of these broadcasts, presided. Miss Florence Yocum and Miss Kathryn Bowers were vocal guest artists. Miss Ann Arlen, violinist, and the Boys' Sanctuary Choir sang under direction of Prof. Harry Wheaton Howard.

Aged Knight of Highway Enjoys Week-End in Jail

Tony Dennis, 74 years old of Fort Washington, Pa., is sojourning in Montgomery County jail at Rockville, Md., over the week end. Tony expects to continue his perambulations along the highways within a couple of days but in the meanwhile he is content to remain "inside."

Picked up by a Montgomery County policeman near Olney early Saturday morning, Tony was taken to the jail so he could have a warm place to sleep. Arrived at the jail, Tony could hardly make himself understood but managed to give his name and address. When he was given the freedom of shower baths, with which the new jail abounds, he was delighted, for contrary to general belief, some gentlemen of the road are a cleanly lot.

After his bath he was bemoaning the fact that he had no clean clothing to supplement the cleansing waters. A policeman told Tom Woodward, restaurant proprietor of Rockville, who proceeded to outfit the traveler with a complete change and now Tony is ready to set forth on his peregrinations all "dolled up" and full of gratitude.

DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

SUGGESTED by the idea of the Radio City which John D. Rockefeller, jr., is building in New City, where vast audiences will be able to attend broadcast performances, there is an opportunity to provide an auditorium for the use of the Marine, Army and Navy bands in one of the new public buildings in Washington, centrally located, for use when they broadcast or give their regular winter concert series.

Also, if these splendid organizations are to be crowded off the air during the desirable evening hours, provision should be made for reconditioning of the Arlington Naval Station to broadcast the concerts.

We who live here are quite accustomed to these bands but throughout the country there is so much interest in them that the largest halls are filled when they go on tour. Yet, what happens when they return to the Capital for the winter? They are almost lost sight of. True they give concerts. But where? The Marine Band plays at the Marine Barracks, Seventh and G streets southeast, near the Navy Yard; the Navy Band is heard from the Navy Yard, and the Army Band from Washington Barracks, P street between Third and Four-and-one-half street southwest.

This is fine, of course, for that part of Washington but how about the rest of the city? So inaccessible are these places to the average Washingtonian that he probably doesn't get down there more than a couple of times in a lifetime. And for visitors it is almost out of the question.

IF some well organized group would get behind the idea and was able to advertise the fact that these concerts could be regularly heard in some downtown Government auditorium, it would be an added inducement to thousands to visit the Capital.

Likewise this would put the bands up on their toes and be a real incentive for them to develop to their fullest capacity. Washington is becoming more and more like a great exposition and what could be a more pleasant contrast after doing the museums and galleries, and other points of interest, than attending a concert by one of the great service bands.

An opportunity to be present when these organizations are broadcasting would afford visitors an added thrill and give them something to write home about. As it is now the music of these service bands, three of the finest in the world, between being crowded off the radio at night by commercial time and giving their concerts in remote sections of the city, is all but lost during the winter season, not only to the citizens of Washington but to the country in general.

A COMMITTEE might be formed to look into the proposition, composed of a representative of the business interests, a representative of Secretary Mellon, in charge of the new public buildings; Gen. Charles McK. Saltzman, chairman of the Federal Radio Commission; Senator James E. Couzens, chairman of the Senate committee having to do with radio, and Representative Ewin L. Davis, chairman of the House committee, dealing with radio. Likewise Senators Dill, White and Capper, who are more or less interested in radio matters.

The first-named could provide a downtown auditorium for the Army, Navy and Marine Band concerts in either the Commerce Building or another of those still to be constructed, and those concerned with governmental radio could aid in having the concerts properly broadcast.

The Metropolitan Opera barytone, Lawrence Tibbett, will make his initial radio appearance with the "Voice of Firestone" group tonight (WRC, 8:30 o'clock), singing "The Peanut Vender," "Ol' Man River," "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms" and "Toreador Song," from "Carmen."

JERRY A. MATHEWS, Jr., a former Washingtonian, now a student engineer with the RCA-Victor Co., at Camden, N. J., spent the holidays here. Mr. Mathews, who resigned after graduation from the Naval Academy to enter the industrial field, is enthusiastic about his work and believes radio development promises a great future.

A 30-piece orchestra, recruited from symphonic and operatic fields and directed by Morgan L. Eastman, will make its bow on the Contented program over the WJZ network at 8:00 tonight. Eastman, the director, has been in radio since the earliest days of broadcasting and claims the distinction of having directed the first studio musical program ever put on the air from Chicago. That was in 1921, when he was with KYW.

An interview with Henry T. Rainey, majority leader of the House of Representatives, by William Hard, before a WRC microphone will be broadcast at 10 o'clock tonight.

AMERICA'S best known song writers will compose special numbers for the Chesterfield "Music That Satisfies" program, opening tonight over WMAL. Irving Berlin heads the list of those who will write exclusive tunes for the broadcasts which will star Alex Gray, lyric barytone, and Nat Shilkret's Orchestra and which will be presented each week night at 10:30 over 67 stations.

Berlin has written a waltz, "I'll Miss You in the Evening," for presentation during the month of January. Each month thereafter Gray and Shilkret will introduce the latest balled by another ranking song writer. The special compositions will be released to the public at the end of each month. The compositions will not be available to other entertainers during the month of the premiere.

THE Roth Quartet of Budapest, Hungary, one of the foremost chamber music organizations, will be the first ensemble to be heard in the new series (WMAL, 2 o'clock this afternoon), under the auspices of the music division of the Library of Congress.

A program presenting to listeners-in for the first time a picture of backstage in the broadcasting studios, will make its air debut tonight (WMAL, 9:15 o'clock).

"RADIO reformers, wave-grabbers and calamity howlers will find little comfort in the Federal Radio Commission's first utterance on the much mooted subject of radio advertising," Broadcasting Magazine will say in today's issue, "but in that carefully worded 'press release' there is a note of warning to broadcasters that can not be ignored. That the bounds of good taste in presenting the advertising message are being exceeded by many stations can not be denied. It may be the so-called 'reckless youth' of broadcasting or it may be overzeal, but the fact remains that not all broadcasting has learned its table manners.

"The commission would like to keep its hands off the advertising question. So would Congress. That's why the commission recites the facts as it sees them and advises broadcasters to remedy the situation voluntarily. Failur to take this opportunity, the commission warns, will lead to its treatment with 'proper legislation.' That means legislative censorship, with a rigid limitation on the amount and kind of advertising. It should not be necessary."

Jane Corbin INTERPRETS the MODE

New York, Jan. 3.

SHADES of autrefois! Yes, but what "other times?" why the times when women weren't so afraid of their new-found freedom that they didn't dare be feminine, and inconsistently darling and capricious, when they indeed delighted in being called capricious!

Shades of other times are right here, and in what, may you ask? You may, and the answer is in stockings with—lace tops! 'Member when we uster wear fancy garters right below the knees, and wonder who ever saw them but ourselves? Well, now we wear millyun franc or hun'red dollah perforated lace tops to our stockings.

Don't be mislead by the term "lace." Lace-topped stockings are really stockings, sheer ones, oh, the sheerest, with perforated designs around the top, woven into the weave of the stocking just like those French open-work clocks are woven into stockings. The designs are usually more or less vague, and modernistic, of course—I mean they are not designs copied from the authentic lace designs such as Chantilly and Valenciennes.

So there you are, my dears—another frivolity that is adorable as it is useless, and the very, very latest feminine gesture of contempt toward the depression!

Now you figure out how to replenish your stocking box with lace-topped stockings, and just what you're going to do with 'em after you have them—and I'd appreciate any helpful hints on the latter subject myself.

* * * *

Just how many things can you do with remnants? Well, why don't you be counting up all of the things you know of to do with remnants while you're waiting for this week's illustrated leaflet with our suggestions of what to do with them? Of course, you have to send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Post for this leaflet, but if you do we'll promise you some novel suggestions and useful ideas that will send you scurrying to the remnant counter to pick up some of those January bargains!

* * * *

Did I hear any one saying anything about seal being an oldish fur? If I did it was just because whoever said it hadn't seen what Heim could do with Hudson seal on a black woolen coat! And I note on the "croquis" that Mamzelle just sent from Paris of the coat I sketched for you today, that although charming Monsieur Jacques Heim insists that the modern woman has nothing whatsoever to do with "autrefois" in her modern wardrobe, the collar and epaulet arrangement of this coat are very, very reminiscent of something or other that some lovely ladies who smile out of our family album are wearing! 'n' just for that, the name of this model is "Mail-Coach!"

* * * *

It's nice to see seal come out of its seclusion o' the past few seasons, now isn't it? 'N' it's a relief, too, to have it used to trim a coat instead of forming a whole one!

* * * *

Speaking of lace—yeah, I did, too, just speak of lace! I think I'll give you a little series entitled "Lace Lore," and start it with Alencon, and try to explain to you tomorrow just what it looks like so you can know at a glance a piece of this lovely lace when you see it.

Au revoir!

THE TAKEOUT DOUBLE.

A DRAMATIC and effectual use of the Takeout Double, using the principles advocated by me, was afforded in the last hand of the sixteenth rubber of my match with Mr. Sidney S. Lenz in New York. In this match Mr. Lenz was playing with Mr. Oswald Jacoby, and was using the so-called Official System. My partner was Mrs. Culbertson, and we, of course, were using the Approach-Forcing System (sometimes called the "One over One").

Mr. Lenz, under his system of bidding, requires only 2 honor-tricks to open the bidding. This minimum is, in my judgment, entirely too low, but it is a minor factor in the hand under discussion, which is shown below:

Rubber No. 16.
North—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.
North-South 30.

| | Mr. Jacoby♠ J 10♡ 6 2◇ K J 9 8 7 4♣ J 9 5 | |

The bidding was extremely interesting. Mr. Lenz, as I indicated above, opened the bidding with one club, although were he using the Approach-Forcing System he must have passed his hand, which contained no tricks whatever outside the club suit. Mrs. Culbertson doubled. Under our system this required a minimum of 3 honor-tricks in the hand and implied ability to stand a spade response. Mr. Jacoby, whose particular forte is bidding designed to make obscure the honor and suit distribution to his opponents, made a bluff Redouble. Fortunately, because of the accuracy of the Approach-Forcing System, it was as clear to me as the noonday sun in a cloudless sky that his Redouble meant absolutely nothing. I held 2 honor-tricks and a half. My partner's Takeout Double guaranteed 3 honor-tricks. This accounted for 5½. Mr. Lenz, I knew, might bid with as few as 2 honor-tricks. This brought the total to 7½. Therefore Mr. Jacoby's Redouble must be a bluff, and the total holding in his hand could not much exceed 1 honor-trick.

Thus, not in the least perturbed nor in the slightest degree dismayed by the Redouble, I ventured to bid one spade. Mr. Lenz passed, and my partner, who did not have the information I had, kept the bidding open by raising the spade bid to two. Mr. Jacoby was through, but now, assured that my partner's Takeout Double was fully prepared for a spade response, I bid four spades, which was passed by all the other players.

In the play, due to the fact that North did not take his 2 club tricks at once, I made six-odd, thus ending a long, spectacular and hard-fought rubber through the application of the rules laid down for Takeout Doubles and response in the Approach-Forcing System.

TODAY'S POINTER.

What Today Means to You

"CAPRICORN."

IF January 4 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:15 a. m. to 10 a. m., from 1:30 p. m. to 2:45 p. m., and from 6 p. m. to 7:40 p. m. The danger periods are from 11 a. m. to 12:35 p. m. and from 9:30 p. m. to 11 p. m.

Do not make settled plans for January 4, as destiny, from the astrological portents, may interfere with man's affairs! It will be a day of indefinite promises, postponed meetings and annoying interferences. A poor time for study or research work.

The child born on this January 4 will be easily influenced, and a creature of its environment. It will be imitative in its manner, words and acts rather than original. Socially, it will be lively and entertaining. It will display decided talents in one or two subjects at school, but will be a poor student otherwise.

Born on January 4, yours is a nature into which very little meanness was put, and you act, think and feel generously. You approach life in such a pleasing, expectant and deserving manner, that you will not be refused your share of its joys and material gifts. The designer of your being did not leave out the silent stoic virtues, which are essential to real nobility, beauty and goodness of character. You do not clutch at excitation in mistake for the true zest of living. You have not lost sight of the value of the simple things in life.

You are determined, discreet and conservative. You are not in the front row when it comes to trying new methods, but you are not too blind to be shown, or too stubborn to be convinced of the "real thing" when it is presented to you. You seldom embark upon an enterprise unless you can be reasonably sure of its outcome. You are not enough of a gambler to ever take a big chance. You do not act quickly, but are steady and reliable, and may be counted upon to accomplish what you undertake.

You love your home, and strive to make it bright, cheerful and harmonious. If you have children, you will take your parenthood seriously and will try to make a good job out of being "father" or "mother."

Successful people born on January 4:

2. Carter Glass, United States senator.
3. Blanche Walsh, actress.
4. Jacob Grimm, fairy tale author.
5. John Churchill Ainsworth, Portland, Oreg., financier.
6. Sir Isaac Pitman, originator of shorthand.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

PERFECTLY MARRIED!

DEAR FRANCES M'DONALD: I'll just have to start this letter just as hundreds of others have—that I read your column every morning—the first thing, when hubby and I are driving down to the office. We both are so interested in your sound advice. If I start looking at the other pages first, hubby will say, "Dear Frances McDonald," and that's my cue to hurry to the next page! Then we discuss the letter pro and con and we both agree with you every time.

Now this morning you ask for the happily married girls and boys to write to you; so my hubby said that he was going to do that, but as the typewriter is handier for me, I said I'd do it. How we wish that a lot of couples who are arguing and haggling in their married lives could see us! Married now five years, and do we hit it off unusually well? I'll say, and all our friends say we do. Maybe we are different, I don't know, but we use a lot of common sense in this business. We both believe that each should have a night off, for instance, I to go to the shows with my chums and he to go to the bowling alleys (of which we are great devotees), and no arguing about this or that, or what time to come in, who did you see, what did you do? Of course, we trust each other; we've never had reason to mistrust each other. I guess that's the whole secret.

Now, I'll tell about my hubby. I've been told by so many that I have an exception. He is good looking, a fine dresser, older than I by six years, but that's nothing to mention, and he has such a good disposition. He mixes in with all. Men and girls both like him. I can trust him to talk to all the girl friends, kid them, make over them if he wants, but he is all for me. So many tell me that he is positively a jewel. When I try to tell girls of my happiness, they say, "Well, your hubby is different; now, mine * * *"

At home for the evening meal (we both work), he is in the kitchen with me; putting groceries away, preparing this or that, peeling the vegetables, maybe setting the table, while I am busy, too. Doesn't sit down to read the paper and then ask when will dinner be ready. Oh, no! After dinner and a chat, we both do the dishes. He is so kind, lovable, considerate in everything. He does half of the cleaning, too; yes, indeed, he thinks that when a girl goes to office, the man should do a half and even more.

If I am tired in the evening after an especially busy day at the office, I can lie down and rest, assured that he is fixing a nice supper. I don't abuse any privileges and neither does he. In other words, and to make a long story longer, we both agree, get along fine, and we think it is all in the fact that we respect the other's feelings and privileges. I would no more think of of nagging my husband and bossing him than I would think of jumping out of a window. On the other hand, I rather like the way he babys me. I look up to him, take his advice, and always ask his advice. I really don't have to in lots of things, but a man likes that, and I, therefore, do it. Why don't other girls be wise and treat the husband decently? Neither one of us has any respect for a girl or her husband when we hear nagging and abuse. We are always loving to each other even in company. If I want to stay home for an evening, as we go out so much, he doesn't have to stay home. He will say, "I'm going to play poker with Harry's crowd" or "I'm going to watch the bowlers" and it is O. K. with me. When he comes in he tells me what he has done. I trust him, you see, for he has never given me a thought for worry. On the other hand, I go to the theater with two or three girls, leave him alone, and maybe he stays in that night and does odd jobs, especially in the kitchen, where he loves to potter around.

I could write on and on about our happy married life, but I will stop now.

Thanking you for the treat you give us daily, I am, most happily married—and proud of it.

ELSIE.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

SIGHTSAVING IN SCHOOLS.

MUCH can be done to improve the vision of nearsighted children. On the other hand, without proper care, if the vision of a nearsighted child is neglected it tends to become steadily worse until the age of 17 is reached. At that age, in most cases, the eyeball stops stretching out of shape, and the state of vision tends to remain at a standstill until the lens changes of senescence cause nearsightedness to again become progressive in certain cases. If the vision of a child is very bad, and correction be not done, the tendency of the eyeball to stop stretching at about age 17 does not develop and vision continues to disintegrate until well into adult life.

One of the commonest of all disorders is nearsightedness. It causes considerable loss of capacity, and it results in fatigue and headaches. A small part of the blindness results from neglect of the nearsighted eye.

Drs. Jackson and Thompson advocate a public health movement, principally through the schools, to improve the eyes of nearsighted children. The things to do are as follows:

Children 6 to 10 years old, with short-sighted eyes, are not to be allowed to do much close reading. It is this kind of eye work that strains the eyes and, in some cases, stretches the eyeball out of its best shape.

Nearsighted pupils must spend a considerable part of their time playing in the open air. By wearing nonbreakable glasses they can engage in somewhat rough sports and that is just what they need.

Attention must also be paid to the general health and the diet must contain enough vitamins.

Dr. Thompson does not think nearsightedness is inherited, though a child may inherit a certain weakness of the eyeball membranes that makes them stretch under strain. He advocates having all nearsighted children wear properly fitting glasses all the time and he limits the hours of studying to two hours daily for bad cases, and to four hours daily for cases that are not so bad. He especially advises against reading in bed during convalescence from diseases such as measles.

HE WEIGHS ENOUGH.

Mrs. A. M. O. writes: My boy is 2 years old, 35½ inches tall, and weighs 30 pounds.

1. Should he weigh more?
2. What should his weight be?
3. In cool weather he is pale. He has no color, his nose runs, and his hands are cold outdoors. Do you think that he is anemic?

REPLY.

1. No.
2. Around 30 pounds. Generally a little below that.
3. Nothing in your letter indicates that the boy is anemic.

MONDAY JANUARY 4, 1932 SPORTS

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

AUTHORITIES at the Naval and Military Academies, in opening negotiations for the resumptions of sports relations on a permanent basis are bowing to the desire of the great body of graduates and undergraduates of the two institutions who want to see the two service rivals meet no matter what their respective eligibility rules may be.

Straw votes taken by the alumni groups of both academies have been heavily in favor of a renewal of athletic relations and that they have been given some consideration by the authorities of the two academies is seen in the fact that December 3 on the football schedules of both has been left as an open date.

The two service schools met on the gridiron last month in the cause of charity on December 12, and, inasmuch as their annual clash before the breach was always the climactic game of the football season, the December 3 date is, you might say, pregnant with possibility of a meeting on that day in 1932.

If any concessions are to be made, they must necessarily come from the Naval Academy. Navy took the initiative in severing relations by refusing to renew the contract under which the teams met before their break in 1927.

West Point refused to alter its stand in permitting its cadets to play three full years of varsity football, even though they may be college graduates with previous varsity experience behind them. The Navy has always taken exception to this rule, following as it does, the policy of all ranking colleges in limiting a football player to three years of varsity service, whether on the Navy team or with a previous college.

West Point's attitude is based upon its precept of equality for all cadets and the Army will not waiver on the subject of football. This equality would be disrupted, Army men claim, if certain cadets of varsity experience with a previous college, were limited to one or two years of football with West Point.

Bearing with him the impressive reputation of Hindu wrestlers in the past Daula, a 240-pound specimen from India, has arrived on our shores and is inviting Jim Londos to a match for the championship, guaranteeing, among other things, to throw Londos three times within an hour.

Daula comes from a tribe of wrestlers the most famous of whom was Gama, the Hindu who made good his boasts of Indian supremacy in the wrestling game by throwing Zbyszko within a few seconds at a time when Zbyszko was the peer of all wrestlers. And there are those today who say that Londos at his best was never the wrestler that Zbyszko was.

But Daula's prospects of a match with Londos are as remote as Ghandi's trousers. His chances of a title bout rate inversely with his prowess. The more powerful he is the less hope he has of getting Londos in the same ring with him. The wrestling bauble is too precious a chattel to be tossed into a ring with such as Daula claims to be and though Londos may step about quickly when he is in a bout, his speed and deftness is nothing as compared to that he shows in sidestepping a logical contender that is not within the pale of the Curley troupe.

"It can even make a totally untrained, unskilled novice look good. Do you remember that Joe Savoldi, no wrestler, but a well-known full back, had more than 100 bouts before first defeat?

"Remarkable? I'll say it is. To think that all his opponents, big, able men, who have been spending their lives wrestling, couldn't put a novice down. Where are those who say wrestling is a good means of self-defense. Don't you know that you can't put a man down if he has a big enough newspaper reputation?

"I think they could make a champion out of Lindbergh."

Two Berths Open In Court League

Two franchises are vacant in the District Amateur Basket Ball League, sponsored by the Boys Club, it was announced yesterday, which league officials are hopeful of filling before Wednesday. The vacancies occurred when the Nativity and Northern clubs were forced to withdraw. Franchises are also open in the 100-pound and 145-pound loops, which teams desiring to compete in the league should apply for immediately.

The schedule for the week in the Unlimited League is as follows: Wednesday, D. C. Firemen vs. unnamed opponents, Saks Clothiers vs. Capital Awning Aces; Saturday, Boys Club vs. unnamed opponent, Delaware & Hudson vs. Tremonts; Sunday, Saks Clothiers vs. Delaware & Hudson.

TAKOMA WANTS GAME.

The Takoma Business Men's unlimited basket ball quintet is without a game for tomorrow night and would like to schedule a strong team. The Shade Shop and Griffith-Consumers are especially challenged. ## Beard Given Two Track Honors

Ferris Selects Record Holder All-American in 2 Events.

Kelly, G. U., Named at 70 Yds., Berths Retained by 14.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3 (A.P.).—Percy Beard, world record-holder in the 120-yard high hurdles and national hurdles champion, indoors and out, today was given two places on the All-America track and field team for 1931, selected annually by Daniel J. Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the Amateur Athletic Union.

Beard is given the place both in the 70-yard and the 120-yard high hurdles, the only athlete to win two places on this All-America team, although several win places on both the All-America and All-College team.

Fourteen members of the 1930 team are selected for the All-America again, although Ray Conger is moved from the mile run to the 1,000 yards, and William Zepp from cross-country to the 10-mile place. Harry Hinkel, veteran heel-and-toe walker, is awarded a place for the seventh straight year.

West Coast Promoter Seeks Dempsey Match

Los Angeles, Jan. 3 (U.P.).—Jack Dempsey will be ready to fight any heavyweight boxer except Jack Sharkey here next summer, his manager, Leonard Sacks, told Promoter Jack Doyle today.

Doyle said he believed Dempsey would draw a crowd of 100,000 if he fought a good heavyweight, and he offered the former champion 50 per cent of the gate receipts to fight Sharkey, Primo Carnera, Young Stribling, Ernie Schaaf or Charley Retziaff.

Sacks drew the line on Sharkey, and substituted the name of Max Schmeling as a possible opponent.

"Jack knocked out Sharkey," he said. "That settles it. I'll never let Sharkey make any money by fighting Dempsey.

"There must be 100,000 people on the Pacific Coast who would pay to see Jack in a title fight with Schmeling, and Dempsey soon will be in shape for such a fight."

Sacks said the former champion would be "in wonderful condition" by next summer.

MARLBORO'S SOCCERISTS TRIUMPH

Rockville Loses, 3-2; Herman Hurt; Win for Brandywine.

ONE of the largest crowds of the season witnessed the battle between Marlboro and Rockville soccer teams, of the Capital City League, at Rockville yesterday, which the former won by a score of 3 to 2. The game was one hotly contested with the outcome in doubt until the final whistle. It was a costly game for Rockville, as it lost the services of J. Herman, right back, who broke his right ankle soon after the start of the second half. In the only other game played in the League, Brandywine scored over Gaithersburg by a 5-to-3 count.

Marlboro and Rockville both played a good combination. Marlboro scored first when L. Mitchell drove the sphere past Goalie Binger soon after the start of the game. A. Gandy, Rockville center, knotted the count soon after when he sent the ball spinning into the net on a clever shot.

Short Drive by Michell Nets Score.

Another short drive by Mitchell, however, produced the second Marlboro score just before the end of the first half. Both teams made frequent attempts to score soon after the start of the second period, but only Marlboro succeeded, R. Mitchell booting the point. Heim counted Rockville's final goal of the day near the end of the fray, a beautiful shot from close in.

R. Early and W. Duval led the Brandywine attack as that team scored over Gaithersburg. This pair accounted for four of their team's five points. Gaithersburg, with Chandlee in the leading role, vainly attempted to overtake their flying rivals on no less than three occasions, but when it seemed that it would succeed, the eventual winners tightened their defense to halt the rally.

Cut in Salary Held Likely For Ruth

Reduction of $10,000 Expected; Gehrig Due Raise.

By DIXSON STEWART.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3 (U.P.).—Babe Ruth, the highest paid performer in baseball, will learn this week how much money the New York Yankees are willing to pay for his services during the 1932 major league season.

The home-run king, who received $80,000 last year, will receive the new contract tomorrow or Tuesday. Indications are that he will sign without any attempts to bolster the sum called for in the document.

Since the close of the 1931 season, the question of Ruth's salary has been the outstanding topic in baseball circles. It is generally agreed that the Babe will have to take a cut of at least $10,000, and probably more.

Ruth Took News Calmly.

Col. Jake Ruppert, owner of the Yankees, has announced that, so far as he is concerned, 1931 saw the passing of the $80,000-a-year ball player. Ruth took the announcement calmly and said he realized that owners do not pay dividends to players because of years of service or other semi-romantic or sentimental reasons.

But it still would be a good bet to name Babe Ruth as the player who will receive most money in 1932. He did much toward giving the Yankees second place in the American League last season, and although his legs are not what they used to be, he ranked next to Al Simmons, of Philadelphia, as the best all-around hitter in the game. His home run production fell off a bit, but still it was good enough to earn him a tie with his teammate, Lou Gehrig for the major league leadership.

Babe Has Saved Money.

Ruth is not perturbed. Since he deserted the ranks of baseball's playboys he has saved a comfortable fortune. A few thousand dollars, more or less, won't make much difference to his coffers. That is one of the reasons baseball followers believe Ruth will sign without argument.

The Yankees are likely to have more difficulty signing Lou Gehrig, Ben Chapman and Lefty Gomez than they are in getting Ruth's signature. Gehrig received $25,000 last season, and there are few, if any, fans who will tell you that Ruth is worth $55,000 more than the slugging first baseman.

It is the belief of Yankee followers that despite all this gossip about lower salaries, Gehrig is due for a pretty healthy increase. And it's also reasonable to assume that Chapman, the best base stealer in the major leagues in a decade, and Gomez, one of the best looking rookiepitchers for some time, will receive a boost in their pay checks.

G. U. and C. U. to Open Grid Season in October

For the first time in years neither Georgetown nor Catholic University will open its football season in September this year Georgetown has arranged its 1932 schedule so that the football team will have benefit of a full month of practice before entering competition, the practice including a training camp session. Catholic originally planned to open its season on September 24 with Boston College, but because the latter desired to meet the Cardinals only on a later date, which Catholic could not possibly fill, negotiations fell through.

Georgetown's first game is scheduled here October 1, with Mount St. Mary's, while Catholic will inaugurate its campaign with City College of New York on the same date in New York City.

VIC'S BEATEN IN FINAL SECOND

Foul Shot Decisive as Hawaiians Win by 22-21 Score.

A FOUL shot by Johnny Shrel with but one second of play remaining gave the Hawaiian Aloha Stars a 22-21 victory over the Vic Sport Shop semipros at Silver Spring Armory yesterday, disappointing more than 300 fans who expected a five-minute extra period.

The penalty came after 40 minutes of sizzling basket ball, in which the score see-sawed by a 1-point margin throughout, when Lester McMenamin, Vic center, hacked Shrel in a flurry under the basket. At no time was either team able to gain more than a 2-point advantage.

The Hawaiians, together with their advertised trio of guitar players and a dancer, produced a powerful court aggregation as well as a nicely received vaudeville act during the half-time intermission. Miss Maria Likons brought down the house with a native dance, accompanied by the string trio.

Joe Sweeney proved the high scorer of the day, swishing five 2-pointers on difficult tries and sinking three fouls. Aside from Walter Morris, however, Sweeney was the only Vic player able to score from scrimmage.

Perry Beats Borotra For Singles Net Title

Paris, Jan. 3 (A.P.).—Frederick J. Perry, British tennis ace, swept aside the veteran Frenchman, Jean Borotra, to win the singles finals in the annual Christmas Cup finals at the Sporting Club de Paris today. The scores were 3—6, 7—5, 6—1, 6—3.

Perry teamed up with Christian Boussus, of France, yesterday to win the doubles final from Marcel Bernard and Paul Feret, of France, 6—4, 6—4, 6—3.

His victory over Borotra in singles further emphasized the decline in the French veteran's game. Borotra, virtually unbeatable indoors in the past, has had a virtual strangle hold on the Christmas Cup singles trophy for some years. He defeated Big Bill Tilden for the title in 1930.

DISTRICT NET TEAMS WIN AND LOSE

Washington Defeats Casualty Team as Dumbarton Bows.

Special to The Washington Post.

BALTIMORE, Md., Dec. 3.—National Capital teams won and lost in their first matches of the season in the Winter Indoor Tennis League at the Fifth Regiment Armory here this afternoon. The Washington team took the measure of the Maryland Casualty Co.'s representatives by 6 matches to 3 while the Dumbarton Club bowed to the Mount Washington team of this city, winning only one of the nine matches.

Although hard-fought matches predominated, there was not a result that could be termed an upset unless the ease with which Page Andrews, of Mount Washington, set back Gilbert Hunt, youthful Capital star, is considered. Hunt went down in two 6-1 sets despite the fact that he has played during the past week in the indoor court.

Frank Shore, Washington No. 1, took a strenuous match from Ralph Robinson by 6—3, 8—10, 6—3 scores. Dawson turned in a victory for Dumbarton when he defeated Joe Schreiber, 6—8, 6—0, 6—2.

EAGLE COURT TEAM IS VICTOR

Radice Star as Pennzoil Pros Are Defeated, 41-32.

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON.

DRAWING away from their opponents in the closing minutes of the fray with a flurry of baskets, the Skinker Eagles chalked up their second victory of the season at the Boys Club yesterday, winning over the Cleveland Pennzoil quintet by a score of 41-32. The visitors, accustomed to playing under professional rules, suffered heavily through numerous penalties inflicted on them because of rough tactics. Fifteen of the Eagles' points were scored on charity tosses.

Duke Allen, center, and an unregistered Mack truck, later identified by Manager Bernie Peacock as Julie Radice, scintillated for the Eagles with their stellar all-around play. Allen controlled the tap-off throughout the major portion of the game and was a wizard at retrieving the ball off the backboard.

Radice acted as a balance wheel for the passing attack of the team, and his calm demeanor in the wildest stages of the tilt was an important factor in the Skinker club's victory. The pair also bore the brunt of the attack, scoring 11 points each. One of Radice's shots was a beauty, made from a difficult angle in a corner of the court.

The Eagles led from the start, holding a 4-3 advantage at the termination of the first period on a pair of nice shots by Evans and Benn'e, and by a 17-14 count at the half. The invaders remained within striking distance until the final minutes of the game, when pot shots by Evans and Bennie, and three fouls in a row by Bennie, Evans and Radice put the locals over the finish line.

Sid Ross, high-scoring forward of the Pennzoil Team, was in rare form. He sank a half dozen pot shots and made good on a trio of foul tries to lead the scoring with 15 points. Ross carried on a little personal warfare with Allen throughout the game, and on several occasions secured commendable half-Nelsons and arm locks on the Washington youth. Allen, however, conclusively demonstrated his wrestling ability, and emerged from one mix-up with two Clevelanders draped around his anatomy.

The Olimen were a rangy lot, towering over the home team like giants over dwarfs. They handled the leather as if it were a baseball and their passes were like rifle shots. The inability of either O'Neil or Rosequist to outjump Allen, and the close guarding of the Eagles, however, caused their defeat.

It was the Skinkers' final game in the Boys Club Gym as a ruling passed by the board of governors last week prohibits the further use of the floor by professional teams.

In a preliminary game the Potomac Boat Club scored a one-sided, 36-to-16 victory over the Tremont A. C.

Maranville Most Colorful Player in National League

Veteran "Rabbit" Still Going Strongly Despite 16 Years in Harness; Remains Outstanding Star.

NOT in all the long history of baseball has there been so complex and extraordinary a character as Walter Maranville, better known as "The Rabbit." Not only is he the most colorful player in the National League, but he outranks all of them in years of service. And his comeback from the minors in 1927, after sixteen years of service is without a parallel.

Not only did The Rabbit come back from his one year in the minors in 1927, but he again became the star he was in the early days of his fame. There is not a single ball player now playing in the National League who was playing there when The Rabbit broke in with the Boston Braves in 1912.

And this wonderful player took part in 145 games the past season and made 145 hits and stole 9 bases and batted .261, which is within 2 points of his major league average.

That expression, "The Last of the Mohicans," applies to The Rabbit, alone of all the men in his league today, or in any other league for that matter. And when it is considered how Maranville spent the first fifteen years of his playing career in riotous living and countless nights of dissipation, it is all but unbelieveable that he could, at the age of 35, throw all this kind of life and these implacable habits over his shoulder as one might throw off an old mantle, and then return within a few months as by a miracle to his old-time playing form.

The only difference between the Maranville who played on the St. Louis champions of 1928 and the Boston Braves of 1930 and 1931 and the Maranville who played on the Boston Braves of 1914 to 1917 was that he had lost a little, a very little, of his speed.

Most Valuable to His Team In 1914.

It is to be doubted if there ever was a shortstop in the game outside of the mighty Hans Wagner, who was more valuable to his ball team than The Rabbit was to the Braves in that immortal year of 1914. He and the fiery Evers formed the most aggressive and crafty and indomitable keystone pair that ever played to-

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 3 (A.P.).—Tommy Armour, of Detroit, British open champion, held his first 18-hole advantage through the Miami open golf tournament to win the season inaugural today with a 285. The black Scot's score was low for any Miami open since the tournament started and was nine strokes better than his nearest competitor, John Kinder, Caldwell, N. J.

Tommy set a course record over Miami Springs links with a 68 the first day, counted a 71 for the second 18 holes and coasted through to victory today with rounds of 75 and 71 for the last half of the 72-hole event.

He won $800 first money and $25 for low score the first 18 holes.

Turnesa in Third Place.

Mike Turnesa, Elmsford, N. Y., was third with 295, one stroke behind Kinder, while Willie MacFarlane, Tuckahoe, N. Y.; Joe Turnesa, Elmsford, N. Y., and Ed Williams, Cleveland, tied in next place with 297's.

Armour Makes Poor Start.

Armour got away to a bad start today as he polled a 40—35—75 for the first 18 holes. In front of a large gallery he dubbed his play on the fifth hole and took a six, one over par, and his only hole score of this size in the tournament. He tightened up on the last round and carded a group of threes throughout for a 34—37—71 that put him far ahead of the field.

BATTALINO DEFENDS FEATHER CROWN IN WEEK'S FEATURE

Lew Feldman Seeks Title In Garden

Bout Is Scheduled for 15 Rounds; Champion Favored.

Little Importance Is Attached to Other Fights of Week.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3 (A.P.).—The busiest of ring champions, Christopher (Bat) Battalino, of Hartford, Conn., will defend his featherweight championship at Madison Square Garden this Friday night against a rising young New Yorker, Lew Feldman.

Particular interest attaches to Battalino's title defense because the featherweight king scaled 135½ pounds when he knocked out Al Singer in two rounds at the Garden recently. He must scale nine and a half pounds less than that to get in at the featherweight limit of 126 pounds.

While Feldman has been coming along fast in a comparatively brief career he hardly rates with Battalino unless the champion finds the task of making weight too irksome. The match is at 15 rounds, the regular championship route.

There is a decided lull in activity in other boxing centers this week. The Far West, however, offers a bantamweight duel at 10 rounds between Panama Al Brown and Speedy Dado, of the Philippines, at Los Angeles tomorrow night.

Bouts on the national schedule include:

Meridians, Firemen In Scoreless Grid Tie

The Meridian 150-pound Football Team finally closed its season yesterday, after threatening to do so for several weeks, when it battled the Engine Company No. 5 Team, of Alexandria, to a scoreless tie in Baggett's Stadium. The week before the Meridians scored a 12-0 victory over the same team, but the Firemen were prepared for them yesterday, using an all-star Alexandria aggregation. The play of Kootz at center, and Turig at right end for the Washington eleven was outstanding. Cabell, at full back, and Fields played well for Columbia.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

THE patents covering the telephone are the most valuable ever issued, and the granting of the patents resulted in many lawsuits—600 being between Bell and Western Union, alone.

Oddly enough, one year before the telephone became an established fact, Bell and all others who thought that the human voice could be sent over a wire, were considered insane. As an example, here is an article printed in a Boston paper, June, 1875.

"A man about 46 years of age, giving the name of Joshua Coopersmith, has been arrested in New York for attempting to extort funds from ignorant and superstitious people by exhibiting a device which he says will convey the human voice any distance over metallic wire, so that it will be heard by the listener at the other end. He calls the instrument a 'telephone,' which is obviously intended to imitate the word 'telegraph' and win the confidence of those who know of the success of the latter instrument without understanding the principles on which it is based.

"Well-informed people know that it is impossible to transmit the human voice over wires, as may be done with dots and dashes and signals of the Morse code, and that, were it possible to do so, the thing would be of no practical value. The authorities who apprehended this criminal are to be congratulated, and it is hoped that his punishment will be prompt and fitting, that it may serve as an example to other conscienceless schemers who enrich themselves at the expense of their fellow creatures."

—Jefferson Park Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS

JEFFERSON PARK, La., Jan. 3.—The program at Jefferson Park, headed by an allowance affair for 3-year-olds and upward, a test over the six-furlong sprint distance, should furnish some interesting events on the well-balanced card. With the track in fast condition, a large crowd of turf fans are expected to witness the sport.

In the main event, fifth on the card, a field of nine sterling speedsters will match strides. C. V. Whitney's consistent Mad Hatter gelding, SMEAR, winner of his last start and well suited by the conditions, is selected to annex the feature. NYACK, coupled with ETONARDO, as the Seremba entry, should furnish stern opposition. FIDDLER has trained well and is capable of extending the top two.

FIRST RACE—The opening event, a gallop over the mile and a quarter route, received a list of 14 platers with TEA GREEN favored over this cheap field. ENTRAP has shown improvement in recent efforts and is the place choice, with GOLD HANDLE favored for the show money.

SECOND RACE—ST. JIM, on the bottom of the list, holds a strong chance to score if he starts in this six-furlong sprint. The Jones Stock Farm's entrant failed last start but appears to have the class here. LOOP, another Whitney horse, will have SILVER WAVE to beat for the place.

THIRD RACE—One of the largest fields of the day will face the barrier in the third event, which is fashioned for 3-year-old fillies. In this one-mile gallop, BAY BLOOM, lightly weighted with 106 pounds, is selected to show the way. DIZZY is at the peak of her form at present and may prove a serious threat. BOB UP should hold the others safe for the show.

FOURTH RACE—Maiden 3- and 4-year-old platers have been entered in the fourth event, a mile and 70 yards gallop. SOUTHLAND LAD raced well in his last start and figures to show improvement. ROBOT is dropping down in this class and should offer the opposition. FLEETING GOLD has been freshened up and is the show choice.

SIXTH RACE—PROMETHEUS, a speedy 4-year-old from the stable of Mr. Padgett, disappointed last outing but against the field which he meets in the six furlongs of the sixth, should make amends. DICK MORRIS has raced consistently and is the place selection. GRAND PRINCE will have CRAZY COOT to beat for the show.

SEVENTH RACE—In the seventh at a mile and a quarter route, THE SOUTHERNER from the E. Haughton string, holds an edge over his twelve rivals. RUSHING has been training briskly after a brief rest and is the place selection, with DICK PORTER favored over the others for the minor award.

EIGHTH RACE—The eighth event, a substitute race, for 4-year-olds and upward, over the six-furlong distance, should result in a victory for THE OKAH. This Chicago campaigner is reported on edge and should have little difficulty. HARRY KUHNS and OUTCRY should finish in that order for the remainder of the purse.

BARRY IS SET TO BATTLE BROWN

D. C. Redhead Developing Punch for Bout Tomorrow Night.

DONALD BARRY, better known to fistic fans as plain "Reds," is ready for the hardest battle of his young life, his clash with Natie Brown, nationally known heavyweight, of the stable of McCarney & Jacobs, which features the Day Nursery benefit bouts tomorrow night in Portner's Arena, Alexandria.

One hundred and ninety-three pounds of muscle, red hair and confidence, tumbled into bed in the Barry home down Southeast way last night and passed into the arms of Old Doc Morpheus entirely at ease and at peace with the world. But it will be a snarling, bristling, leather-firing youngster that answers Jimmy Lake's call tomorrow night in the center of the ring.

Barry completed training for the bout yesterday afternoon with a strenuous workout in the Mohawk Club Gymnasium. At the end he had lost 3 pounds, but he expects to scale again at 196 when he goes into action, by reason of the rest which Manager Donovan has ordered for today.

In the morning Reds jogged 3 miles around Fairlawn Field. After lunch he boxed Billy Schwartz and Billy Edwards each for four rounds at top speed and then tapered off the grind with a short session of bag punching and shadow boxing. He may work a little on the bag again today if he feels the need of limbering up.

Brown, who has conquered Billy Jones and K. O. Christner and fought Max Baer and Battling Bozo in close bouts, is unquestionably the most talented boxer with whom Barry ever has been matched. While Barry has been campaigning for two years among fourth-rate fighters, Brown has gained the benefit of experience with major leaguers. So tomorrow night's affair should find Reds on the short end in the betting—an unusual circumstance where he is concerned.

Short, of Baltimore, To Referee.

In a meeting of the Day Nursery boxing committee yesterday, it was decided that Charlie Short, of Baltimore, shall officiate in the feature bout. A schedule of engagements for Short, Goldie Ahearn and Heine Miller, all of whom are popular hereabout in the "third-man" role, also was drawn up. According to the schedule the three will divide equally the officiating of bouts in Portner's Arena, with each one assigned to a complete show every third week.

Ahearn will serve next week.

An attractive card of preliminaries has been arranged to support the Barry-Brown brawl, with Henry Irving and Joe Finazzo, light heavyweights, swapping punches in the semifinal of six rounds.

Capital Colleges Face Busy Week With 13 Court Games

THE busiest week of the season thus far for Capital collegiate basket ball teams begins with all of the ten squads resuming practice following the holidays in preparation for thirteen games. All but Maryland are slated for competition, the Old Line quintet being without a game until next Monday when Loyola from Baltimore invades the College Park court.

Georgetown and George Washington, both of which are undefeated, will pry the lid off the week's program Wednesday night with the former meeting Baltimore U at Tech Gymnasium and the latter entertaining the Quantico Marines on the court at 2010 H street northwest.

Judging from early performances, both Georgetown and George Washington have improved over last year's form. Coach Freddy Mesmer, of Georgetown, has taken a comparatively raw squad of recruits to fashion a team that promises to grow stronger as the campaign progresses. The acquisition of two giants, Ralph Hertzler and Werdon Parrack, has noticeably strengthened G. W.

American University, also undefeated, will play three games in Virginia beginning Thursday night with Randolph-Macon at Ashland, Va. On Friday the Eagles will engage Virginia Medical College at Richmond and on Saturday they will oppose Hampden-Sidney at Hampden-Sidney.

Catholic University's tossers, beaten in four out of six starts, are matched with the University of Mexico five for Friday night in what probably will prove the week's biggest attraction for the fans. Coach Forrest Cotton has tentatively shifted his lineup to place Bus Sheary at forward instead of guard and Bob McVean at center instead of forward. Tom Whelan has won a forward assignment, while Lou Spinelli and Ed White will be seen in the guard positions.

Gallaudet's lone engagement of the week is listed Friday night when the Blues play host to Maryland State Normal, twice defeated by local teams this year, on the Kendall Green floor.

Howitzer Giants Win Court Opener

Birthright's One-HandGoal in Final Second Beats Fredericks, 24-23.

The Howitzer Giants Basket Ball Team successfully opened its season yesterday, winning a 24-to-23 victory over the Frederick Pros in a spirited game in the Kensington Armory Gym before a large crowd. The game was a thriller from the opening whistle until the final few seconds of play.

There was little to choose between the two, neither club obtaining a commanding lead at any stage of the tilt. The Giants obtained the lead shortly after the start of the game and did not relinquish it in the first half, holding a 13-to-12 advantage at the intermission. The lead see-sawed back and forth in the second half until the final minute of play, when Shipley, Frederick forward, sank a long one from midcourt to knot the count. Houck put the visitors out in front shortly after, when he made good on a free toss.

The real Frank Merriwell stunt was engineered by Birthright, Giant forward, in the waning second of the fray, when he came through with his only basket of the day, a one-hand toss from the side of the court, to swing the tide of victory in the Howitzers' favor.

BOND PRICE UPTURN BRIGHTENS OUTLOOK

Federal Issues Take Lead in Rising Trend; Rails Follow Advance.

New York, Jan. 3 (A.P.).—Although no unusual records were established, the bond market during the past week took on a quiet firmness that encouraged some dealers to hope for a continued recovery in major securities.

There was more than the usual selling to establish income tax losses, but it was absorbed steadily. United States Government issues took the lead in an upward swing Thursday, and it was reported that important bank buying was taking place in this list.

The rails, long depressed, started an upward swing with the low-priced carriers attracting most attention. Announcement that the roads had arranged for payment of their interest charges, and belief that the executives and union leaders would arrive at a satisfactory adjustment of the wage reduction question, led to greater activity among the transportation loans.

While there was a sagging in a majority of the domestic liens at the short session Saturday, at the same time there was noted an underlying strength that gave much encouragement to dealers.

One of the reasons given for the better feeling in the market was the announcement by the Comptroller of the Currency that he would permit banks to use book value instead of market value for bonds in making up their year-end reports.

In the foreign list Japanese bonds continued to move downward, although they steadied at the week-end. German obligations, which have recently shown strength, lost much of their gains Saturday under heavy selling. Argentine loans advanced several points and British 5½s closed with a slight advance.

CHEMIST ARRESTED IN DOUBLE TRAGEDY

Wife and Daughter, 7, of Prisoner Are Found Shot to Death.

Gary, Ind., Jan. 3 (A.P.).—William R. Gibson, 42, a chemist, was arrested today following the slaying of his wife, Florence, 32, and their daughter, Margaret, 7. The bodies of the mother and child, punctured by bullets, were found in the Gibson home by Dr. Leo Ryan, who had been summoned by Gibson.

Gibson denied killing the pair. He told police he had been in Calumet City until 2 a. m., when he returned home and retired. Soon thereafter, he said, he was aroused by groans coming from his daughter's room. He said he found the child on the floor, bleeding from several bullet wounds, and immediately telephoned Dr. Ryan. Before the doctor arrived, Gibson told police, he found his wife in her bedroom, also wounded.

The child was dead when Dr. Ryan reached the house, and Mrs. Gibson died a few minutes after being taken to a hospital.

Dr. Ryan and Dr. S. D. Taylor, deputy coroner, said the child had been shot four times, through the back, and Mrs. Gibson twice through the heart. Police found a five-shot revolver in Mrs. Gibson's room, they said, and deduced that the gun had been reloaded during the killings.

FOOD DISTRIBUTORS EFFECT BIG MERGER

Best Foods, Inc., Absorbs Richard Hellman, Inc., Operations.

New York, Jan. 3 (A.P.).—Merger of Best Foods, Inc., a division of Gold Dust Corporation, and Richard Hellman, Inc., a division of General Foods Corporation, was announced today.

C. M. Chester, jr., and Randolph Catlin, presidents of General Foods and Gold Dust, respectively, in a joint statement said: "The brands of both companies will retain their identities, but the operations of the two distributing systems will be joined." The new company will be known as the Best Foods, Inc. Both organizations manufacture mayonnaise and salad dressings in eleven plants, one at Norfolk, Va.

Mr. Chester announced that General Foods had acquired the 49 per cent interest in Frosted Foods, Inc., formerly held by Goldman Sachs Trading Corporation. General Foods already held the remaining 51 per cent. Frosted Foods owns all the patent rights to a process for freezing perishable foods.

New Yorkers Are Urged To Ignore Beggar Pleas

New York, Jan. 3 (U.P.).—Asserting that the problem of street-begging has become so acute in New York that immediate steps are necessary unless the city is to revert to creating and maintaining a pauper class, the welfare council, in a statement issued today, urged citizens refuse to give money to those who request it.

There are more beggers on the city streets and in the subway trains than ever before, the council's survey indicates, and on many avenues—notably Fifth, Park and Broadway—"it is frequently impossible to walk a block in the evening without being approached for alms."

Body of Dr. Latane To Lie in State Tonight

Lexington, Va., Jan. 3 (A.P.).—The body of Dr. John H. Latane, who died in New Orleans Friday, will lie in state in Lee Chapel at Washington and Lee University tomorrow night.

After funeral services at his home in Baltimore tomorrow, the body will be sent to Staunton, his birthplace, and from there to Lexington. Services will be conducted at the grave in Lexington cemetery Tuesday morning. Dr. Latane, for eleven years a teacher at Washington and Lee, left in 1913 to join the history department of Johns Hopkins University at Baltimore.

$6,325,028 Earned By Utilities Company

Chicago, Jan. 3 (A.P.).—Utilities Power & Light Corporation reported today net income of $6,325,028 for twelve months ended September 30.

This is equivalent to $3.22 a share on Class A stock, compared with $4.71 the previous year. The difference was largely due to losses by the St. Louis Gas & Coke Corporation in the pig iron business

FARRELL VOICES KEY TO TRADE RECOVERY

Steel Head Says Business Will Emerge Soon Bigger Than Ever.

New York, Jan. 3 (A.P.).—The statement of James A. Farrell, president of the U. S. Steel Corporation, that "we will emerge from the present depression bigger and stronger than ever" was said by several leading industrialists to sum up their forecasts at the start of the New Year.

With few exceptions they declined to predict when the expected turn for the better would develop.

A recently concluded survey of nationwide scope, conducted by a New York banking house, showed almost uniform agreement that improvement would take place this year. About two-thirds of a number of business men interviewed forecast improvement starting the first half. The remainder looked to the final quarter for the long-sought renaissance.

A number of leading New York executives said they were looking to Washington, rather than Europe, for necessary impetus that would speed recovery.

Europe Seen as Key.

Before full prosperity could be obtained, several spokesmen said, Europe would have to get back on its feet. But the start can be made by this country, alone, these business leaders contended.

Likely developments that offer promise of business stimulation, they said, are prospective formation of the proposed reconstruction corporation and prospective railroad wage and rate readjustments.

J. J. Bernet, president of Chesapeake & Ohio, stated that a most important contribution might be made by rail workers to business recovery by "the apparent realization that they, too, as well as the stockholders and bondholders, and everybody else, for that matter, must face a period of sacrifice."

W. C. Teagle, president of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, said that unit development of pools offered one of the most potent possibilities of improvement in the oil industry. He pointed out that the industry in 1931 for the first time in its history had cut down surplus oil stocks in a depression year.

January Recovery Expected.

Steel trade journals voiced general belief that operations in that industry would increase during January. For the last week of December, production was at 22 per cent of ingot capacity against 21 per cent the preceding week. New buying from the automobile industry was still awaited as the year ended.

Alfred P. Sloan, president of General Motors Corporation, said he, for one, could not predict when recovery would start, but he said there was excellent foundation for faith because of "the desire to possess and the willingness to work to possess."

The Shippers Regional Advisory Board reported that it looks for no immediate upturn in car loadings, which in the week ended December 19 declined to 581,733 cars. For the first quarter of the new year, this board estimated loadings at 5,241,746 cars, a decrease of 370,415 from the same period of 1931, or 6.6 per cent less.

Bank Plea Is Made For Gold Standard

National City Review Sees Chaos if All Nations Drop Basis.

New York, Jan. 3 (A.P.).—A plea for the maintenance of the gold standard is made by the National City Bank in its monthly review issued today.

"If all countries should leave the gold standard and use paper currencies having no fixed relations to each other," states the review, "international trade would be in a state of chaos and domestic trade would be in almost as great confusion. In truth, the situation would be intolerable.

"Most of the persons who seem readily disposed to try the experiment of cutting loose from the gold standard for a little flyer in inflation apparently have no conception of the confusion and disaster which might result. They know the terrible experience of Europe with inflation after the war, but doubt that anything like that could happen to the United States."

FAMOUS TRAIN CUTS SCHEDULE TO MIAMI

The "Florida Special," famous train running through Washington, begins its forty-fifth consecutive season today and its birthday is celebrated by announcement of a world-record schedule of 29 hours and 40 minutes for the 1,386-mile trip between New York and Miami.

Back in January, 1887, when the "Florida Special" was inaugurated, Florida was only a name connoting alligators and mangrove flats. A few venturesome spirits had discovered that its fruits, flowers and superb winter climate and sunshine offered wonderful opportunities for development. Among these was the late Henry M. Flagler, who, after learning that the Atlantic Coast Line intended to inaugurate a through de luxe tourist train between New York and Florida, decided that a fine winter hotel would be justified.

The "Florida Special" was the train and the famous Ponce de Leon, at St. Augustine, was the hotel. The hotel opened in January, 1887, and two days before the "Florida Special" left New York with Mr. Flagler's guests, off for the christening of his Arabian Nights palace. The venture proved to be highly successful and the results have brought untold millions to Florida. Mr. Flagler immediately began his great life work of extending the Florida East Coast Railway, to eventually reach Key West.

With such a proud history, no surprise is occasioned that it opens its forty-fifth season from New York at 3:30 p. m. today more spendidly equipped than ever before and announces the achievement of another world record by becoming the first train to ever make Miami from New York in less than 30 hours elapsed time. It leaves New York at 3:30 p. m.; leaves Washington at 8:20 p. m.; arrives at Jacksonville, 12:30 p. m.; St. Augustine, 1:33 p. m.; Palm Beach, 7:23 p. m.; Miami, 9:10 p. m., the following day—29 hours and 40 minutes from New York, and less than 25 hours from Washington.

Culpeper Firemen Unable to Cope With $7,000 Conflagration.

Special to The Washington Post.

Culpeper, Va., Jan. 3.—Fire, which had made such progress before it was discovered that it was impossible to control it, destroyed the chair factory of Weaver Tanner at Brightwood, 14 miles south of here, early today.

The blaze, when discovered by an employe, covered the entire second story of the three-story building, and, in spite of the efforts of 20 members of the Culpeper Volunteer Fire Company, who rushed two pieces of equipment to the scene, nothing could be done to save the building or the stock of finished chairs. Damage was set at about $7,000.

Because of the high insurance premiums demanded on buildings used as furniture factories, these chair factories, of which there are several in Madison County, carry no insurance, but have formed a small organization to which they pay assessments which are used to partly rehabilitate members who suffer fire losses, and it is thought that Weaver & Tanner will receive some indemnity from this organization.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

IF EXPERTS COVERED THE HOME CONTRACT PARTIES.
NORTH—MRS. HOFFMEYER.
EAST—MRS. GUNCH.
SOUTH—MRS. POOTLE.
WEST—MRS. TWITCHELL.

* * * *

Mrs. Hoffmeyer dealt and passed, adding, "It's informatory, you know." Mrs. Gunch bid one no trump and remarked, "We can make it if my partner has any high cards and a couple of long suits." Mrs. Pootle said, "Pass. And remind me later to tell you an awfully good story I heard the other day." "Oh, tell it now," demanded the other three ladies. During the telling of the story (after closing the door to the children's room) everybody forgot who had opened the bidding, but the best recollection was that Mrs. Gunch had won it on a bid of four hearts, doubled. The Twitchell-Gunch team was set five.

SECOND HAND.

Mrs. Pootle dealt out of turn, nobody noticing it, and opened with one spade. Mrs. Twitchell (West) asked if anybody had seen Clark Gable in his latest picture. Mrs. Hoffmeyer (North) said that she thought Gary Cooper better looking. Mrs. Gunch (East) said, "I double two diamonds." There was quite a row over the question whether anybody had bid diamonds. Mrs. Pootle finally settled it with the positive assertion that she had opened with a bid of one club. Mrs. Twitchell passed and went to the back door too tell somebody she didn't order any artichokes. Mrs. Hoffmeyer bid three no trump on two one-card suits. When set, she explained that she had thought her partner had bid two no trump and that she was merely letting her know she had a couple of jacks. The post-mortem chatter was pretty confusing.

THIRD HAND.

Mrs. Twitchell (West), started to deal when Mrs. Pootle said, "You dealt last time, Minnie." "Did I?" asked Mrs. Twitchell. "No, I dealt last time," said Mrs. Gunch. It was finally decided that Mrs. Hoffmeyer (North) should deal. Mrs. Hoffmeyer bid two hearts and asked if the girls had heard that Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford were separated. Mrs. Gunch (East) bid two spades and said she heard Douglas was in love with a British countess or something. Mrs. Pootle discovered she had fourteen cards. It was declared a misdeal, with each player insisting that it robbed her of a sure grand slam.

FOURTH HAND.

MRS. HOFFMEYER dealt again and opened with three clubs. "You shouldn't bid three unless you have a very strong hand," cautioned Mrs. Pootle, her partner. "All right, I bid one club, then, to start with," said Mrs. Hoffmeyer. "Oh, you can't change your bid," said Mrs. Gunch. "I misread by hand," insisted Mrs. Hoffmeyer. "But you'll have to stand on it," said Mrs. Twitchell. "Oh, if you want to be technical!" exclaimed Mrs. Hoffmeyer. One word led to another, and in the end Mrs. Hoffmeyer was set six clubs. The atmosphere was pretty chilly.

MARYLAND U. FEARED ON COURT

ATLANTA, Jan. 3 (A.P.).—With a formidable quintet from Maryland, champion last year, favored to set the pace, Southern Conference basket ball teams tomorrow start their drives for 1932 recognition. A few contests, including one conference and several intersectional engagements, already have been played during the holidays, but this week finds most of the 23 conference teams ready to face the business of winning enough games to warrant their participation in the annual championship tournament here in February.

Tennessee's Volunteers open their season with Clemson at Knoxville tomorrow night and on Saturday battle the Georgia Bulldogs on the same court. Alabama plays Howard at Tuscaloosa tomorrow and on Friday and Saturday entertains Tulane for a brace of games. South Carolina encounters Clemson at Columbia Thursday and Friday.

Florida makes its conference debut against Georgia Tech in Atlanta Saturday, while Duke meets Wake Forest at Durham Friday, and William and Mary Saturday.

The titular five from Maryland start the defense of their crown at College Park Saturday against Washington and Lee's Generals. Kentucky, runner-up to Maryland in the South in 1931, has an intersectional tilt with Detroit in the Michigan city Saturday.

On Saturday Vanderbilt tackles Auburn at Nashville, Virginia meets Navy at Charlottesville, V. M. I. plays St. John's, of Annapolis, at Lexington, and North Carolina faces Davidson at Charlotte. North Carolina State battles William and Mary at Raleigh Friday, while on Wednesday North Carolina meets Guilford at Chapel Hill.

STOLEN POLICE PISTOL BELIEVED HIS WEAPON

Prisoner Foiled in Attempt to Draw Gun When Arrest Is Made.

Wilbur (alias Peewee) Wright, colored, alleged killer of Patrolman William A. Bell, of Baltimore, was captured by two Washington detectives at his home here yesterday afternoon after a six-hour search in the Northeast and Northwest sections.

The pistol with which he is said to have killed the policeman was taken from him by the detectives, who met him with guns drawn as he stepped into a house at 1029 Fourth street northwest. Detectives said Wright readily admitted shooting the patrolman, and quoted him as declaring he fired three shots at Bell.

Three slugs were missing from the gun he is charged with stealing from the home of a Washington policeman December 15.

Prevented From Drawing Gun.

As Wright was about to enter the house, the detectives, led by Detective John Dalgish of the homicide squad, closed in on him. He reached for a pistol in a shoulder holster but a quick blow from one of the policemen prevented his obtaining the weapon and doing any damage.

It was later determined that the gun found on Wright was stolen from Private Guy S. Thompson, of the Ninth Precinct, when his home at 821 Fifth street northeast was broken into last month. It was a regulation police service revolver.

A woman with whom Wright had been living aided in the capture, detectives said. As Wright walked toward the house, looking up and down the street and peering at the building suspiciously, she went to a front window and beckoned to him to enter. The woman had assured them, the detectives said, that Wright had been working in a bowling alley and could not be the man they wanted.

Woman Disguise Found.

In addition to a pistol and a quantity of clothing he is alleged to have stolen, a woman's hat, dress and wig, with which he had intended to disguise himself, were found in the Negro's room, the detectives said.

Baltimore detectives came to the Capital bearing addresses of several apartments in which Wright might be found, and they canvassed these from shortly before 9 a. m. to 2:30 p. m. The Washington men planted themselves in the house in which the alleged murderer was caught, while the Baltimore detectives continued their round of the other addresses they had obtained.

After the arrest Wright was taken to police headquarters here and there is alleged to have admitted two burglaries in the Capital and four in Baltimore as well as the shooting.

Painfully burned yesterday when her dress caught fire as she stood before the open door of a furnace in her home at 1269 Penn street northeast, Anna May Wyche, 2-year-old daughter of H. B. Wyche, an employe of The Post composing room, received first-aid treatment at Casualty Hospital and returned home after her condition was said to be not serious.

Little Anna May was playing in the basement of her home, and as she stood near the open door of the furnace a flame flashed out, setting fire to her clothing. Her screams brought Mr. and Mrs. Wyche. Her father quickly smothered the blaze with a blanket.

Physicians at the hospital said the child suffered second degree burns on her right side and hands.

Weird Cries Spur Search; Man Is Jailed

Blood-curdling screams in the vicinity of Wisconsin avenue and Upton street northwest last night sent scores of startled citizens and nearly a dozen policemen of the Eighth Precinct on an extensive search of nearby woods.

The cries first were heard by Abraham Selbin, proprietor of a store at 4527 Wisconsin avenue. They appeared, he said, to come from a patch of woods in the rear of his establishment.

With the aid of flashlights, the hunt continued until Policeman R. M. Kirby stumbled on the prostrate form of a man. After an examination revealed he was uninjured, the man was taken to the precinct station house.

He said his name was James Madison Fitzgerald, 32 years old, of 4230 Wisconsin avenue northwest. He was charged with being drunk.

4,172 IN 1931 JOINED CATHEDRAL SOCIETY

Association's Gain in Year Largest Since Founding, Says Bishop Freeman.

The largest membership increase in any 12-month period of the National Cathedral Association since its founding in 1898 was recorded during last year, it was announced yesterday by the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington.

A total of 4,172 new members were enrolled, an increase of 25 per cent over the 1930 enrollment. The association includes nearly 14,500 members in all States and many foreign countries. Their annual offerings are used to help maintain employment in the construction and maintenance of the cathedral.

During 1931 253,499 pilgrims from all parts of the world visited the cathedral. Among distinguished visitors were: Mrs. Hoover, Premier Laval, of France; Gen. John J. Pershing and Mrs. Winston Churchill, wife of the British statesman.

Since the tabulation of visitors and worshippers was started in April, 1924, at the doorway of Bethlehem Chapel, 1,886,344 names have been recorded. The figures cover only those who entered the Crypt Chapels, and does not include thousands of other pilgrims who visited the grounds, the Bishop's garden, the cathedral schools and other associated agencies in the cathedral project.

Two Fire Alarms Stir Neighborhood

Bowling Alley and Home Blazes Found Almost Simultaneously.

Two fires within five minutes and only two blocks apart caused excitement in the Southeast section last night but caused small property damage.

The first alarm rang at 10:35 o'clock for a small fire in a trash closet in the Queen Pin Bowling Alley, at 513 Eighth street southeast. The fire was confined to the closet and was extinguished with small damage. The second alarm was at 10:40 for a fire on the second floor of a two-story frame house owned and occupied by David Floyd, colored, of 710 Ninth street southeast.

Floyd's wife, Malissia, was asleep on the second floor of the house when the fire awakened her. She escaped from the house without injuries and gave the alarm. The bedroom and roof of the house were damaged to the extent of approximately $300. It is thought that the fire was started by an overheated coal stove.

$150 Apartment House Rug Stolen in Clerk's Absence

A $150 rug was spirited away from an apartment at 5130 Connecticut avenue northwest early yesterday by a well-dressed youth whose companion had accompanied the night clerk at the apartment to an upper floor on the pretext of calling on an occupant of the building.

Harold H. Culmer, the night clerk, told police that the men came in about 3 o'clock in the morning and asked to call on the occupants of an apartment. Inasmuch as the name the men asked for was slightly different from that of the tenant at the Connecticut avenue apartment, Culmer said he told the men he did not want to awaken the tenant and then find a mistake had been made.

Finally he suggested one of them accompany him to the apartment on another floor, while the other waited downstairs. The tenant aroused was not the one the men wanted to see, Culmer said, and he came downstairs. The other man was outside, he said, but he attached no significance to this. Later he discovered the rug missing from the floor of the lobby.

PASTOR MAKES PLEA FOR CLEAR THINKING

Profit by Lessons of Past Year, Dr. Stockdale Urges in Talk.

"The old year is gone. Its lessons and results remain. Its effects upon the one that lived it will at least start in the New Year. Whether they continue and dominate depends upon the way a person lives the fresh days of new challenges and opportunities," said Dr. Allen A. Stockdale preaching yesterday at the First Congregational Church on the subject of "Tired of Being a Fool."

"I call to your attention a very challenging book entitled, "A Fortune to Share," by Vash Young, and put special emphasis upon the chapter about being tired of being a fool," Dr. Stockdale said.

"It has been said very cleverly by someone that, 'if you can not remember the time when you were a fool you must still be one.' If you can remember how and when you were a fool last year then you have a chance of saving yourself from being the same kind of a fool the coming year.

Urges Clear Thinking.

"Instead of getting tired and disgusted with the fools about you, it is much better to react against the foolishness which you find in your own self," the speaker explained.

"You are more affected by your own foolishness than you are by the fools about you. By clear thinking you will keep yourself from being captured by the fool's secret of happiness, by the fool's shortcut to riches and fame, by fool's paradise, and the fool's cures for age-long sins and miseries.

"Vash Young came to the conclusion that there is nothing so practical as idealism, that the cure of economic ills is right thinking and the secret of happiness lies in the honest effort to live one's ideals.

Change Sought.

"Vash Young got tired of being a fool and set out upon the endeavor to attain some great dominions. First, the dominion over habits that tear down life. Second, the dominion over the limiting effects of self-centeredness. Third, the dominion over the crushing defeats of disappointment. Fourth, the dominion over the subtle destruction of bad and ungoverned temper.

"Why enter the year with the handicaps of fear and worry, with the broken courage of a coward, with the impossible philosophy of the atheist and the limitations of the personality of the fool?" Dr. Stockdale continued.

"Uncontrolled temper casts fools more than anything else. Being too egotistical to learn things they must go on paying the penalties of their foolishness month after month. There was once a man who called another man a fool and immediately the latter became angry and proved it.

Decries Temper.

"If he had controlled his temper there might have remained some doubt about his being a fool. The anger of a fool breaks his own health and happiness and also the health and happiness of those who must live or work with him.

"Many are tired of being fools, but they have discovered that they are involved with the methods of foolishness and the companionship of other fools. It takes courage to break away, but it pays great dividends.

"The reason why fools go to such limits of foolishness is because they are so blind to the folly of their ways. It is no disgrace to possess the memory of once being a fool, but it is a confession of hopeless weakness to realize that one can not cease being one," the speaker ended.

Injuries received last Wednesday when the automobile he was cranking near his home at 1413 South Carolina avenue southeast suddenly started and knocked him to the pavement yesterday proved fatal to Peter Eckell, 69 years old. He died in Casualty Hospital from complications resulting from several fractured ribs and severe lacerations.

Eckell, it was said, left his machine in gear as he attempted to crank it. The car suddenly started and as he was thrown to the pavement, the front and rear wheels of the machine passed over his body. The car crashed into two other parked machines and came to a stop more than a block away.

Police removed Eckell to the hospital, where complications set in, resulting in his death yesterday. Coroner Joseph D. Rogers was notified and started an investigation of the accident.

WILLINGNESS TO DO COMMONPLACE ACTS IS URGED BY PASTOR

FLORENCE NIGHTINGALE IS PRAISED IN SERMON

People Should Not Strive Always to Seek High Places, Cleric Says.

"God wants His children not to be seeking the high places, places of honor and emolument, but to be willing to do the commonplace things which are necessary," declared the Rev. John E. Briggs yesterday at the Fifth Baptist Church.

The topic of the sermon was "And He Took a Towel," the text being taken from the fourth verse of the thirteenth chapter of the Book of John. "And he took a towel and began to wash the disciples' feet."

"Jesus and His disciples were in the upper room following the observance of the Passover and the institution of the Lord's Supper. A few hours previous these disciples had been disporting with each other as to who should be the greatest. One wanted to be secretary of state and another secretary of the treasury. They were still expecting a temporal king and a temporal kingdom and they were vieing with each other as to who should have the highest places of honor," the speaker said.

Servant Washed Their Feet.

"In Eastern countries a servant was stationed at the door with a pitcher and basin and water and towels to wash the feet of guests who removed their sandals on coming into the house. Jesus and His disciples were in this guest chamber, but there was no servant there to wash the feet of those who came in. Like sulky schoolboys, the disciples waited each for the other to do the foot-washing, but it was beneath their dignity.

"John would not wash Peter's feet and Philip would not wash Andrew's feet. So Jesus, to rebuke them, arose from the table, laid aside his outer garments, girdled himself with a towel and began to wash the disciples' feet," Dr. Briggs said.

"I take the towel to be the synonym of service. Later God said, 'The Son of Man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister,' and, 'As my Father sent me into the world, even so send I you.'

Seek Kingdom of God.

"Again Jesus said that we should not worry about what we shall eat and wear, but seek first the kingdom of God and His righteousness and all other necessary things shall be added.

"Again He said, 'The rulers of the Gentiles rule over each other, but with you it shall not be so. Whoever wishes to become great among you shall be your minister and whosoever wishes to be first among you shall be your servant. If I, your Lord and Master, have washed your feet, ye also ought to wash one another's feet. I gave you an example that as I did to you, ye also should do. A servant is not greater than his Lord. Nor one who is sent greater than he who sent him.'

"Who were the greatest people of the nineteenth century? I wonder would I miss the mark if I mentioned Lord Shaftsbury, who spent his life and money in caring for the chimney sweeps and the boys who worked in the mines of England and Wales, or John Howard, who did so much for prison reform?

Others Pointed Out.

"Oh Dr. Bernardo, who gathered during his long life many thousands of street urchins and waifs and developed them into useful members of society. Florence Nightingale, who, though born to rank and wealth, devoted herself to the task of nursing the sick and wounded soldiers of Crimea, and became the forerunner of our modern Red Cross.

"These are among our noblest and best, and they are our greatest and best just because they served. They stooped to lowly service. The care of orphans, chimney sweeps, wounded soldiers, half savage Africans, they stooped to wash their feet. And that is the way to greatness still. We should do commonplace things in an uncommon way. And we should do them with a song in our hearts and a smile on our faces," Dr. Briggs concluded.

Missing Girl Witness Ready To Tell of Student's Death

Miss Bertha Walter, 18, Who Disappeared From Hearing Saturday, Will Tell Her Story of Fatal Fight at Inquest Today.

Reconvening at 10:30 o'clock this morning, a coroner's jury will hear Miss Bertha Walter, 18 years old, of 631 Fifth street northeast, regarded as a key witness in the circumstances leading to the death early Saturday morning of 16-year-old Edward McCarthy.

Miss Walter, who is said to have witnessed the fight that ended in the fatal injury of McCarthy, was summoned to appear Saturday before the coroner's jury in the case. She appeared at the hearing room in the Morgue, but when her name was called she had disappeared. Coroner Joseph D. Rogers then adjourned the inquest until today.

Detectives located Miss Walter yesterday at her home, which is just across the street from the home of Andrew Kane, 631 Fifth street northeast, where the party ending in McCarthy's death took place. What reason she gave for her disappearance could not be learned, but it is understood that both she and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl O. Walter, gave positive assurance that she would be present to testify today.

The signed statement of Edward Benjamin, 19 years old, 1104 Trinidad avenue northeast, end on the 1931 Gonzaga High School Football Team, will be read to the jury today. It was made to Detective Sergt. John Flaherty a few hours after McCarthy's death.

Benjamin, who was technically charged with murder on the arrest book at police headquarters, is said to have admitted pushing McCarthy, causing him to fall heavily to the sidewalk from the front steps of the Kane home. He was released after the inquest in the custody of his attorney, James Reilly. Mr. Reilly, a former Supreme Court page, recently attained considerable note by obtaining an order for a new trial by the highest court for a Negro client convicted of murdering a policeman.

A number of members of the party at the Kane home testified Saturday. Several companions of the McCarthy boy, with whom they are alleged to have attempted to "crash" the party held for the Gonzaga Glee Club, also testified.

Funeral services for the McCarthy boy will be held tomorrow at the family home, 715 Allison street northwest, at 8:30 a. m. A high requiem mass will be said at St. Gabriel's Church at 9 a. m., and interment will follow in Mount Olivet Cemetery. The dead youth formerly attended St. John's College, but had been forced to relinquish his studies several months ago because of ill health.

BOARD WILL PROBE BOY 'ATTACK' CASE

Man May Be Prosecuted by Welfare Group for His Influence Over Youth.

George S. Wilson, director of the Board of Public Welfare, said last night that he would investigate the case of Bromslow Golkski, 15-year-old ward of the board, who had himself bound and trussed by two companions in order to escape from the "dire" influence of an elderly man.

The youth, a McKinley High School student, was found lying in Rock Creek Park New Year's morning by a motorist. He was taken to Garfield Hospital and treated for exposure.

At first he stated that he had been assaulted and thrown in the park and that he could not remember who was responsible for the acts. Later he admitted to police that he had two boy companions bind him and leave him as he was found, hoping to use the story of the assault to break a connection he had formed with the elderly man.

The man he named was questioned by police and released Saturday night. The Board of Welfare, as custodian of the boy, may asked that the man be prosecuted.

COMMUNITY RELIEF FOR JOBLESS URGED IN CHARITIES REPORT

UNIVERSITY OF KANSAS EXPERT MADE SURVEY.

Essentials for the Effective Assistance to Needy Persons Outlined.

Imperative need for community planning to protect the homeless and jobless this winter is stressed in a report made public yesterday by the Family Welfare Association of America, of which the Associated Charities of the District is a member.

Intended for use by local communities in working out relief systems, the report was prepared at the request of President Hoover's organization on unemployment relief by Robert S. Wilson, of the department of sociology of the University of Kansas, after a first-hand survey of methods of helping the jobless.

Capital Not Included.

While Washington is not included in the plans of 16 communities as outlined in the report, the problem is one with which the District Employment Committee, the local missions, members of the Council of Social Agencies and the Monday Evening Club are wrestling at the present time, it was pointed out by officials of these organizations.

The report stresses the fact that successful community plans to care for homeless men drifting to metropolitan areas this winter must consider the following essentials: Getting the facts as to extent of need; coordinating the work of welfare agencies in the community; centralizing in a bureau the responsibility for caring for the homeless; administering relief through experienced social workers and giving constructive, individualized service rather than mass treatment.

Other Essentials.

Other essentials emphasized are elastic time-limits for the stay of transient men in a given shelter; efficiently managed shelters; work requirements; health services; preservation of the morale of homeless men during periods of enforced idleness.

Public officials, police, clergymen, and representatives of missions, health agencies and social work organizations are all needed in working out community plans, it is pointed out.

Cherry's car then crashed into the fire alarm box, knocking it down. The taxi was driven by Walter Reed, colored, 25 years old, of 1724 Tenth street northwest, and the street car was in charge of Motorman C. A. Groves, of 514 M street northeast.
